Sen. Faulkner Hails Split Tax

Speedy passage of the bill to make Massachusetts a community property state and save its citizens $100,000,000 a year in federal income taxes will be urged by the sponsors of the measure at tomorrow's scheduled hearing before the joint legislative committee on legal affairs, which opens at 10 a. m. at the State House.

As public interest in and support of the pending legislation increased throughout the Commonwealth, State Sen. Burton F. Faulkner (D.) of Somerville today announced his endorsement of the bill.

"As I understand the bill," Sen. Faulkner said, "it provides the people of Massachusetts with a means of keeping our money right here where it can do the most good. Its sponsors say it would save the taxpayers between $32,000,000 and $100,000,000 annually.

"Not only will the community property law benefit the small wage earner but it will permit those in the higher income brackets to invest what they save in taxes in Massachusetts industry.

"It also has been suggested that if we can save our citizens from 23 to 42 per cent on their federal income taxes, they would be willing to pay a slightly higher State income tax, as they would still be saving money.

"Unless there are good reasons brought out against the bill, I am definitely going to favor it," Sen. Faulkner declared.

Added support was given the measure when Massachusetts members of the Linen Supply Ass'n, in convention at Hotel Statler, were urged by Stanley F. Posner of Washington, D. C., general counsel for the association, to support the Community Property bill here.

The co-sponsors of the bill, Rep. Peter J. Jordan of Revere, Republican whip in the House, and Rep. David M. Cleary of Charlestown, member of the legislative committee on taxation, today urged every man and woman interested in saving money for themselves and the State to attend tomorrow's hearing.

"The Community Property bill," Rep. Jordan asserted, "is the only possible way by which the people of Massachusetts can reduce their federal income taxes as much as $100,000,000 this year. It gives the people of this State their biggest tax reduction in 25 years.

"The issue is simple. If the bill is passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor, the $100,000,000 stays in Massachusetts. But if the bill is delayed or defeated, that amount goes out of Massachusetts forever."

Rep. Cleary, concurring in Rep. Jordan's warning, said:

"Beware of those persons who are trying to give the Community Property bill the kiss of death. They have come to me, and they will come to you, suggesting that the matter be referred to a recess commission.

"Can the citizens afford to lose $100,000,000 this year and a similar amount next year while a recess commission dallies over what any competent lawyer could settle in two days?"

Cleary was critical of individuals who he said were trying to sabotage the proposed bill.

"Those same people," he said, "do not hesitate to advocate the most vicious sales taxes. They want us to assess amusement admissions so that the child would have to pay a five-cent tax to ride the merry-go-round at Revere Beach.

"They would tax every $20-a-week clerk who attended a movie and every disabled war veteran who buys a baseball ticket."

Rationing Of Sugar Ends Soon

By SAM FOGG

WASHINGTON, June 9 (INS) — The Agriculture Dept. is considering ending home sugar rationing June 30. It was authoritatively learned today that a final decision is dependent largely upon the following three factors:

Continued regular shipments of sugar from Cuba, whose crop has exceeded Agriculture Dept. estimates.

No maritime strike.

No increase in present consumer consumption.

Under existing law, both home sugar rationing and controls over the allocation of sugar to industrial users will end Oct. 31 unless terminated earlier by Agriculture Sec. Anderson.

Anderson has advised the House Banking and Currency Committee that all restrictions on sugar for household use would be removed as soon as the department determined there was sufficient sugar to meet the demand.

If the department decides home rationing can not be ended yet, additional supplies of sugar probably will be made available to housewives through another ration stamp.

Anderson said housewives probably would then receive another five pounds of sugar for general use before rationing ended or 10 pounds for home canning, provided some restrictions could be placed on the latter.

He pointed out that last year the housewife received 25 pounds, of which 15 was for general home use and 10 for canning. This year, he stated, she is already assured, even without any future increase, of at least 35 pounds for general use.

Hub Wife, 7 Others Climb Mt. McKinley

MT. McKINLEY, Alaska, on the Roof of North America (Via Radio Through Camp Eielson, McKinley National Park), June 7 (Delayed) (INS)—Seven men and a woman reached the roof of North America today, attaining the 20,270-foot peak of Mt. McKinley to climax "Operation White Tower."

For the first time in history, a woman, Mrs. Bradford Washburn, stood on the summit of towering McKinley. In so doing, the wife of the leader of the expedition has accomplished a feat that will stand as a milestone in the annals of mountaineering.

Accompanying her to the lofty eminence of the mountain were Bradford Washburn, Boston; Lt. William Hackett, Camp Carson, Col.; Robert Lange, Melrose, Mass.; James Gale, Anchorage, Alaska; Robert Craig, Seattle; George Browne, Ross, Cal., and William Deeke, Woodridge, N. J.

Washburn's ascent also was a history-making achievement, marking the first time anyone had conquered the massive peak twice.

Only a few hours earlier, Mrs. Washburn, a slight, five-foot, 110-pound wisp of a woman, also became the first woman ever to reach the top of McKinyed's north, or twin, peak, the second highest rampart of the great Alaskan mountain.

The group immediately set about erecting the two highest survey stations ever established on the North American continent, one on each of the twin peaks.

Duke, a newsreel cameraman, photographed the final hazardous five-hour struggle to the summit, putting the finishing touches on a complete photographic study started more than two months ago.

Another thousand photographs have ben taken by Washburn, director of Boston's New England Museum of Natural History, who made his first McKinley climb with a seven-man Army party in 1942.

Weather research and a study of glacial motion also are included as part of the scientific work undertaken by members of the party.

Soldier, Eloping Girl, Plead Guilty In Prof. Shooting

NORTHAMPTON, June 9—Pvt. Edward Hawkins, 21-year-old Chicagoan and former Westover Field military policeman, pleaded guilty with his 19-year-old elopement fiancee, Pansy Mabel Herman of Haydenville, today to charges growing out of the shooting of Prof. Norman W. Butterfield, Rhode Island State College.

Judge Charles J. O'Connor in district court held the soldier for the grand jury in bail of $2,000 for assault to rob while being armed and carrying a gun.

Hawkins admitted in court he had been AWOL a month from Patterson Field, O.

The Haydenville girl who pleaded guilty to being accessory after the fact of the shooting, was held in $5000, although Asst. Dist. Atty Stillmen D. Hitchcock asked bail of twice that amount.

The 42-year-old professor, who was shot twice, once in each thigh, near Williamsburg, after giving the pair a lift, narrowly escaped being murdered and stuffed into the trunk of his car, state police disclosed today.

Only the approach of another automobile saved him, according to Lt. William J. Puzzo.

The soldier, who was arrested with the girl near Albany about 12 hours after the shooting, confessed he had intended to shoot Butterfield in the stomach but the professor managed to get out of the car and hide in the woods just as an automobile approached from the opposite direction.

Puzzo quoted the Army deserter as saying he tried to fire a third shot but the gun, of Italian make, jammed. Even so, said Puzzo, the soldier tried to find the wounded professor in the woods and finish him off after the other car passed.

She Chicagoan's plan was to stuff Butterfield's corpse in the trunk and discard it far away, according to the admission Puzzo said he got from him.

Prof. Butterfield, who managed to crawl 300 yards to a farmhouse, was reported in good condition today at Cooley Dickinson Hospital.

New York police who intercepted the couple in the professor's automobile, said the soldier told them he and the 19-year-old girl planned to get married in Chicago and had taken the car because they had no money.

Prof. Butterfield said he met the couple in a Haydenville cafe while driving to his summer home in Pittsfield from Amherst, where he had been attending a reunion of his class at the University of Massachusetts.

Hawkins asked him to give him and Pansy a lift, he said, as they wished to get to Pittsfield. He readily agreed, and the three of them started out.

Eastern Yacht Club Fire Loss $50,000

MARBLEHEAD, June 9—Fire raced through one wing of the palatial Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead Neck early today, but firemen from three communities succeeded in saving most of the huge, five-story wooden landmark.

Damage was estimated at $50,000 by Fire Chief John F. Adams, who said a dining room and summer kitchen on one wing were gutted. Heavy rain and prompt arrival of firemen saved the main portion of the building and the right wing.

Two young women and a man, all employes were aided by Fire Dept. Chaplain Michael Collins in fleeing from servants' quarters in the south wing threatened by flames. They were Miss Holly Michaels and Miss Ann McCulloch, the head waitress and desk girl, respectively, and Raymond Fouchett, the chef.

One member, Francis H. Cummings of Prides Crossing, Beverly, was spending the week-end at the club. He reached the lobby unaided. William Samuelson, the headwaiter, also fled without difficulty.

Cummings, Samuelson and Nicholas F. Shea, new club manager, carried out $25,000 worth of trophies adn yacht models.

The rambling building has been famous in yachting circles for more than 100 years and has been the scene of many international regattas.

The fire was discovered about 5:30 a. m. by Police Capt. Howard Magee, who saw flames from across the harbor in Front st. His call to firemen resulted in a general alarm, and firemen from Swampscott and Beverly aided the local department.

Magee also called Shea, who found himself cut off and made his exit over a fire-escape.

Fire Chief Adams announced the blaze was under control after an hour and a half. He was unable to state the cause of the blaze immediately.

The summer kitchen and dining room in the damaged wing had opened for the season only yesterday.

The exclusive club is one of the landmarks of the North Shore, and has among its members some of the best known families in society. It is located on Harbor ave.

Burglar Puts Out Fires He Starts

A 36-year-old Roxbury kitchen worker, who pointed out he was at least conscientious enough to put out fires he accidentally set while burgling houses, admitted several Roxbury breaks in police line-up today.

He said he lighted matches to find his way around a Schuyler st. home and set a bedspread afire. Putting out the blaze and escaping with a $1000 diamond ring, he said.

He then entered a Ruthven st. home, also dropped a lighted match there, started another fire, put it out and made off with a few knicknacks.

Mrs. Anna Bachner of Deckard st., whose home was entered, identified the suspect as having knocked her down in his escape.

Bribe Demand Story Backed At Kelly Trial

John Comoletti, of Cummins hgwy., Mattapan, took the stand in Suffolk Superior Court today as the government moved toward an early conclusion of its case against City Council President John B. Kelly on trial on bribery and attempted larceny cvharges.

Comoletti told substantially the same story as that related last week by his partner, Anthony Donato, of Watertown — that Kelly had demanded $2500 from them to obtain permits for a garage then planned to build in Dorchester ave., Dorchester.

"Seeing it's you, John," Comoletti quoted Kelly as saying at a meeting in the defendant's home, "I'll only charge you $2500 to obtain the license for you."

The witness told how he and Donato had discussed building a garage and gasoline station and purchased the property in Dorchester ave. He said he had known Kelly for 20 years, had done campaign work fro him and decided to call on him for aid in obtaining the necessary permits.

He said he telephoned Kelly on June 7, 1946, and that the latter said he wanted to see the place. He said they met at the site, looked it over and that Kelly invited him to bring Donato to the Kelly home the next evening to talk it over.

e said Kelly opened the conversation by informing them garage and gasoline permits were like liquor licenses, the "biggest thing in Boston." Then he made the remark about the $2500 and the witness declared:

"I screeched and Donato said: 'Let's get out of here, John.'"

"Kelly asked what we had in mind and Donate said about $200," the witness continued. "He said he wouldn't pick up a pencil for that."

"He said he had to have the money to pay off nine men in the Council behind the curtain. He turned down $500 and told us that it would be no use to apply for the permit, that he would oppose it."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle asked if he had any further conversation and the witness said:

"Yes, I met him in front of his house two weeks later. He was trying to fix his car, and I helped him.

"Then I said: 'Look, John; I'll take $200 more than the $500 out of my own pocket if you'll help us.' He said: 'All right, I'll take the $700, but . . .'

"It was a big but. He said when it came to the question of permits for sidewalk openings he would see us again.

"I told him, 'Oh, no. It's $700 for everything or nothing.' Then I drove away."

Asked if Kelly had said what he would get them for the $2500, Comoletti replied:

"He said it would take care of all the permits, if there was no opposition."

JOHN COMOLETTI

John B. Kelly

A. J. Donato

Under cross examination, Comoletti said he could not remember when he had seen Kelly prior to their June meetings as Murphy lashed at his testimony that he knew the defendant well and had worked on his campaigns.

"Did you have Frank Morrissey call Kelly for you?" asked Murphy.

"I don't remember," Comoletti replied.

"Didn't you ask Morrissey to call Kelly in your behalf?"

"I don't remember."

"When did you see the defendant before June?"

"I don't remember."

"Was it one year or 10 years?"

"I don't remember."

Possibility that Comoletti would be the final government witness was indicated in a rumor the prosecution would not call the street commissioners to the stand, although the three members are under summons as witnesses.

If Doyle should rest his case after Comoletti completed his testimony, it was thought this might alter the announced plan of Defense Atty. Timothy J. Murphy to present no defense witnesses.

Latin School Hails Patriots After Tour of State House

Three Washington, D. C., high school students, who fused the resistance of the nation's youth against Communistic invasion of this country's bastion of democracy, today began the final day of their three-day triumphal tour of the city by visiting the State House.

Virginia Marakle, Ruthe Pigott and Dick Smith, who spurned a Communist lecture by walking from a school assembly hall, were greeted by Lt. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge in the absence of Gov. Bradford. The chief executive was at Amherst to deliver the commencement address to the first class to be graduated from the University of Massachusetts.

Sai Lt. Gov. Coolidge:

"I know the Governor will be very disappointed that he was not here to welcome you. We of Massachusetts are glad to see you.

"We are proud of your attitude and we all share your views. You all have made a very fine impression on the country and I think you've done a wonderful job of it. Carry on with the good work.

"The Hearst Service is doing a wonderful service to the country by spotlighting your activities."

The three now famous visitors signed the Governor's guest book and were then taken on a tour of the State House by George Sheldon, a member of the special police.

High point of the afternoon program is their appearance at Boston Latin School, whose alumni include five signers of the Declaration of Independence.

All 1500 pupils at the famed school were given miniature flags distributed by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser for a mass pledge of allegiance, followed by singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and a special rendition of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" written by Rev. Samuel Francis Smith, a Latin School graduate in 1825.

Chairman Daniel L. McDevitt of the Boston School Committee was chosen to preside at the ceremony in the school auditorium, called to order by Headmaster John L. Powers.

The school visit followed an action-filled Sunday during which the visitors were acclaimed by the State Department, American Legion, at a breakfast at Copley Plaza.

George F. Hederson, city treasurer of Chelsea and judge advocate of the State Dept. representing State Com. Lawrence J. Quigley, who is ill, declared:

"The Legion is proud to welcome this patriotic and courageous trio, who are so imbued with a love for their country, that they refused to sit passively and listen to a Communist propagandist belittle their own country," Hederson said.

"By their action in walking out on the speaker, they at once became symbols of the American youth for whom so many Americans bled and died in order that they might be assured of their heritage as American citizens.

"By their action they showed that they could discriminate between freedom of speech and license. We are not opposed to freedom of speech, nor are these students. Freedom of speech is one of our cherished rights.

"But there is a difference between freedom and license. That famous jurist and member of the U. S. Supreme Court, our own Oliver Wendell Holmes, summed up the difference between freedom and license when he said, 'Freedom of speech does not allow a man to shout "Fire!" in a crowded theater.'

"And those who resent the action of these students on the grounds that even a Communist has a right to speak freely are the very persons who shriek for the protection of our Constitution, the very instrument they are seeking to destroy.

"The future of America rests with our youth. These three students have shown they are worthy of all the sacrifices made by patriots since the days of the Revolution. There are millions of boys and girls in America today who share their patriotic zeal. We hail this trio as the symbol of our youth today, and in such youth we have a profound faith. In them American ideals live, and will live to be handed down to another generation and another, forever."

Henderson digressed in his tribute to the students to laud the Hearst newspapers for their perennial championship of Americanism.

"Some of us do not realize, or fully appreciate, the patriotic service of William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers. Long before war clouds darkened the Pacific, when the Pearl Harbor disaster was not even dreamed of by the most pessimistic, Mr. Hearst warned us that some day, Japan would strike a sudden blow at our own western frontier.

"Like all prophets, he was unhonored in his own country. But his warnings, unheeded, had their awful realization on that 'day of infamy,' when Japanese air power devastated Pearl Harbor.

"Mr. Hearst is to be commended for recognizing the inspiration these three high school students gave the schoolboys and girls of the nation. I am sure their appearances in our big cities will strengthen the patriotism of all of us, and keep us ever mindful of the dangers inherent in Communism."

In a speech consisting of two sentences, Richard Smith set forth like a gem, the sparkling truth that is cherished in every American heart.

Among the high Legion officials at the breakfast were: Miss Lillian Gately, department committeewoman; Silas Campbell, member of the executive committee; Coleman Curran, adjutant; Philip Cashman, historian, Fred Mullen, treasurer and Andrew Priest, of the Americanization committee.

Today's program follows:

10.30 a. m.—Greeted by Gov. Bradford at State House. View Hall of Flags.

1 p. m.—Address assembly at Boston Latin School.

2 p. m.—Tour of historic spots in Boston.

4 p. m.—Recording of talks at WEEI for broadcast Tuesday.

7 p. m.—Dinner at Sheraton Roof.

$24,128 Found On Woman

PORTLAND, Me., June 9 (AP)—A total of $24,128.85, found wrapped in tiny parcels on the person of an elderly New York city woman here last fall, soon will be sent to a representative of the owner.

Word was received today from the New York State Public Health Department that William P. Hastorf of New York, has qualified as representative of Miss Sophie Hastorf, about 70, of New York, who was found wandering near the railroad station here last Nov. 15. She was returned to New York a few days afterward.

Shur said he would take steps immediately to transfer the money to the custody of Hastorf. The New York letter did not specify any relationship between the woman and Hastorf.

Return of Trio Sought in Lynn Man's Murder

After lengthy interrogation of a Lynn mother, her 15-year-old son and a former merchant mariner, 26, held in Ithaca, N.Y., in connection with the bludgeon slaying of Harry Rosen, 63, wealthy Lynn manufacturer, last Wednesday, detectives moved today to return the trio here to face charges.

Chief Insp. Charles T. Duggan of the Lynn police and State Det. Raymond L. Foley went to an Ithaca court to ask Tompkins County Judge Norman G. Stagg for custody of the trio.

If any of the three, Mrs. Laura Shurger, 35, Roy F. Shurger, Jr., or Herbert Douglas, fights extradition, it is expected their return to Lynn would be delayed until the end of the week.

Otherwise, they are due back in time to appear in Lynn court tomorrow. Douglas is charged with the murder of Rosen; the boy is charged with being a delinquent by reason of murder, and his mother is charged in a warrant with being an accessory after the fact.

Rosen, who was murdered in his office at East Lynn in a $75 robbery, was buried from the Levine Chapel in Harvard st., Brookline. His body was discovered Thursday morning, the skull crushed by several blows.

LUCKY LADY

Fortune smiled broadly today on Cynthia Vose, Longwood Towers, Brookline.

Last night she reported to police she had lost a one-and-a-half carat diamond ring, set off by 22 baguettes, somewhere between the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and the Algonquin Club.

This morning she opened the main door of the Towers and found it glistening on the threshold.

Bowker Backs El Purchase Plan

On the eve of a hearing before the House Ways and Means Committee on the Boston Elevated purchase plan, State Sen. Philip G. Bowker of Brookline declared the only sure and safe way for the State to benefit through public management of the El was to purchase control at the option price of $85 a share.

In a radio talk replying to State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley, who a week ago advocated purchase of the El by eminent doman, Bowker said the objective of securing the greatest benefit for the greatest number could best be attained by enacting the present bill.

"This bill accepts the contract made by law in 1931 and gives the Commonwealth the authority to purchase the El stock at the $85 a share figure," Bowker pointed out, adding that "those who at the eleventh hour advocate purchase by eminent domain are offering a more protracted and costly method."

Buckley repeated his opinion last night, declaring that a secret document compiled by Washington tax experts, "hired and paid by the railway," showed total liabilities of the road to be $73,579,492, against assets of only $73,906,096.

"In other words," Buckley asserted, "the Boston Elevated Railway, worth exactly $326,513 by their own figures, would cost the taxpayers $20,296,000 by this $85-a-share legislation."

State Will Call Cote Neighbors In Murder Trial

PLYMOUTH, June 9—Mrs. Bertha Surprise Cote's two closest women neighbors will confront her in Superior Court as witnesses for the government, next week at her murder trial, the prosecution disclosed today.

CLAIRE CASSIDY
Stenographer to Testify

Asst. Dist. Atty. John R. Wheatley identified them as Mrs. Alice Winberg, occupant of the first floor apartment in a three-story dwelling in Harvard st., Brockton, and Mrs. Margaret Minnock, occupant of the second floor.

The Cotes lived on the third floor, and it was in the living room of their apartment that the body of Rene Cote, 35, was found in the early morning of last Dec. 28, bludgeoned and strangled a few feet from the Christmas tree.

Mrs. Winberg, a former school teacher in Louisiana, was the first person to enter the Cote apartment following the murder. She was called upstairs from her home and she made the first telephone call for the police, the prosecutor said.

Police said it was Mrs. Winberg who first told them there were footprints in the snow leading into and out of the rear of the dwelling.

Mrs. Minnock, living directly beneath the Cotes, told investigators that she heard an argument in the upstairs apartment, according to Wheatley.

A third woman will also appear for the government, the assistant district attorney said. She is Miss Claire Cassidy, the Brockton police stenographer who took down in shorthand statements by the blonde widow which police termed three different versions of the murder.

The attractive 28-year-old widow, only occupant of the women's section of Plymouth County jail, has been promised the use of an iron and other facilities to prepare her wardrobe of several dresses for her court appearance.

This morning, Defense Counsel Eben G. Townes is due to ask Judge Felix Forte in a hearing at Middlesex Superior Court for sufficient funds to hire experts to study the medical evidence.

Wheatley said the government would not oppose this move.

U. S. Woman Found Slain Near Tokyo

TOKYO, June 9 (AP)—The body of an American woman was found early today beside a road six miles from the center of Tokyo.

While U. S. agents refused to discuss their investigation, other sources said there were two bullet holes in the woman's head. No firearms were found in the vicinity of the body.

Headquarters declined to identify the woman, except to say she was a War Department civilian emplaye, pending notification of next of kin. But an autopsy was performed today on the body of Miss Brocha Lvova, 33, Russian-born American citizen from New York. She had been missing since last night.

Chandler Jury Told Treason Only Issue

The 14-man jury trying Douglas Chandler for treason was told by Presiding Judge Francis J. W. Ford today that the government must prove the defendant intended to betray his country.

As Massachusetts first treason trial moved into its second week, Judge Ford addressed the jury on the importance of keeping the issues of the case in mind.

"I think it is well to remind you of the case you are trying," he told the panel. "The defendant is being tried and only being tried for treason."

The government must prove that he voluntarily committed one of the 17 overt acts contained in the indictment, the court pointed out; adding it must be shown that Chandler actually assisted Germany in the conduct of the war.

First government witness, Edward V. Sittler, a young, husky German with whom Chandler allegedly discussed radio programs for broadcast over German short wave from Berlin, identified a signature on an application for a passport for residence in Yukoslavia as Chandler's.

Chief Prosecutor Oscar R. Ewing read from the application that Chandler was born in Chicago, left the United States in 1031; resided in France from 1931 to 1933; in Germany, from 1933 to 1938, and in Yugoslavia from 1938 to 1940, when he sought renewal of his passport.

The applications, the prosecutor continued, said Chandler's father was born in Worcester, Mass., and his mother in Lancaster, Wis.

In the applications, Ewing said, Chandler solemnly swore to bear allegiance to the United States, gave his legal residence as 5432 Northumberland ave., Pittsburgh, and signified his intention of returning to the United States in five years.

21 Die, Damage Widespread in Floods, Wind

By International News Service

The Mississippi River smashed through its levees today and rolled over thousands of acres of rich Illinois and Missouri farm lands, adding immesaurably to the misery and property damage caused by floods and tornadoes over the week-end.

The levee breaks were between Keokuk, Ia., where the Des Moines river poured its flood waters into the Mississippi, and St. Louis, Mo.

Ottumwa, Ia., caught the full force of the swollen Des Moines; 10 persons were known to have perished, and rescue workers said the death toll may reach 20, and 15,000 of the city's population of 40,000 were homeless.

Child Now Suspect in Baby Killing

By CHARLES J. THOBABEN

MASSILLON, O., June 9 (INS) — One of the most bizarre hospital mysteries in the nation's history seemed to be taking still another strange turn today.

From the original theory that a maniacal killer murdered 10-week-old Diane Jean Brand and 9-week-old Rose Mary Morton in their Massillon City Hospital cribs last Friday night, police shifted to the possibility the infant girls were killed accidentally—and possibly by a child.

Police Chief Stanley W. Switter disclosed the investigation was being concentrated, for the time being at least, on intensive questioning of nurses, seven children and one parent.

All were in the immediate vicinity of the death room during the 10-minute interval in which the babies' skulls were fractured by what was described as a "blow by a blunt force."

Switter denied reports one of the seven children had confessed pulling the two infants from their cribs.

While the new lead was being traced, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brand, parents of the dead babies, prepared for funeral services this afternoon.

Police revealed three of the seven children were ambulatory patients last Friday night and were allowed to play freely in and out of the sunroom and the corridor.

It was still unexplained how any of the children, all three under seven years old, could have pulled the babies from their cribs to the floor and then lifted them back.

The newer theory of accidental deaths also conflicted with the official verdict of homicide.

Strike Voted Under New Delaware Labor Law

WILMINGTON, Del., June 9 (AP)—Workers of the Eastern Malleable Iron Co. walked off their jobs today after taking the first strike vote conducted under Delaware's new labor law, which requires a secret ballot and tally in the presence of an impartial observer. The CIO-United Auto Workers, voting 317 for the strike and 28 against, demand a wage increase of 11½ cents an hour plus six paid holidays. The company has offered 7 cents an hour with six paid holidays.

Moslems Storm India Parley

NEW DELHI, June 9 (AP)—A disturbance broke out in heh Imperial Hotel grounds today as the Moslem League Council convened in the hotel ballroom to act on a British plan to divide India between Moslems and Hindus.

Khaksars, members of anti-league Moslem organization, rushed into the grounds wearing Arab costume with horsehair coils around the heads and yelling slogans. They skirmished with police, and 60 of them were hauled off in police vans.

Mail Funds Theft Suspect Seized

MULLIKEN, Mich., June 9 (AP)—A three-month search for Fred Shuert, former acting postmaster charged with embezzlement, was ended today with his arrest while hiding in a barn behind his home.

Ingham County deputies who took Shuert into custody on a federal warrant said he gave no information as to his whereabouts or actions since he disappeared from his wife and 10 children March 10.

Postal authorities said an audit showed a $4500 deficit in the Mulliken postoffice funds.

Wallace Democrat Concedes Defeat

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 9 (INS)—Charles R. Savage, a "Wallace Democrat" conceded defeat to Russell V. Mack, Republican, by 1500 votes in Saturday's bitter contest for U. S. representative with only a few ballots uncounted in Washington's Third District.

Latest returns from 579 of the 607 precincts gave Mack 32,707, and his opponent 31,267 votes. Nationally, the defeat was seen as a setback for Henry A. Wallace who stumped the state last month for Savage as "the kind of a man I'd like to see in Congress."

$1,500,000,000 in U. S. Aid Boomerangs to Benefit Reds

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 9—The United States is finding out that the $1,500,000,000 of American money for postwar reconstruction poured into Soviet territory since the war ended is now being used against this nation.

As the U. S. A. girds itself for a political and economic struggle of survival against the USSR, it is paying the grim penalty of sending good American dollars after bad in its former Soviet appeasement policy.

The $1,500,000,000 given to the Soviet Union and its present satellites since July, 1945, are official figures.

The sum does not include billions of dollars given to European nations such as Austria, Italy and France which may eventually fall within the Soviet orbit.

The $1,500,000,00 funneled to the Soviets since V-E Day includes money-aid through UNRRA, Lend-Lease, sales of overseas surplus property, Export-Import Bank transactions, direct grants, Army relief expenditures in occupied territory and so-called technical and cultural aid projects.

Here is a breakdown, compiled from government figures, on how the postwar bounty from the pocketbooks of American taxpayers, has been spent to build up the economic, propaganda and military strength of the Soviet Union and its dominated territories:

Soviet Union, $421,000,000; Yugoslavia, $302,000,000; Albania, $40,450,000; Poland, $436,500,000; Finland, $96,282,000, Czechoslovakia, $282,131,000, and Hungary, $25,265,000.

Golden Wedding Couples Feted

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—Thirty-five couples, married 50 years or longer, were guests of the Grand Street Boys Ass'n at its 11th annual golden wedding dinner.

The guests of honor included Jewish, Protestant and Catholic couples of various national origins. Oldest present were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Praeger, 86 and 85 respectively, who have been married 63 years.

Among prescriptions given by the oldsters for a long and happy married life were "love and tolerance," and "keep good hours, sober times and go to bed early."

Brass Workers Accept 11½-Cent Pay Increase

Dennis reported that 4200 production workers will be affected. The basic wage has been 81 cents an hour for women and 96 cents for men.

Jews Pledge All-Out N. E. Fund Drive

Delegates to the New England Regional Conference of the United Jewish Appeal resolved unanimously to dedicate their "unlimited efforts to help raise $170,000,000 for the United Jewish Appeal" at a meeting preceding the start of community drives in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and Vermont.

Milton Kahn, New England regional chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, disclosed that $115,000,000 already has been subscribed.

Principal speaker was Justice Frank Murphy of the U. S. Supreme Court, who urged full support of the campaign and declared "nothing in the pages of history is comparable to what has been done in our time to the Jews of Europe.

"The central theme of our Constitution is the dignity of the human personality. If you let that slough off, all the rights that are preserved in that most precious document—the Bill of Rights—will soon go.

"Christians can't stand by and let this be done to Jews. So, awake Jews! Awake Christians! Awake Americans! Don't let this be done to anybody, for, as long as it is done to anybody, it is done to you."

New York's Bowery Would Banish Bums

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—The Bowery is getting tired of its bums. Through its Bowery Improvement Committee the East Side Chamber of Commerce has suggested a farm colony "somewhere upstate" where the Bowery's chronic alcoholics would be sent for a cure.

"This action," said Wilfred B. Kirk, committee chairman, "would materially reduce the disgraceful condition of the Bowery, where the three-times-daily police pick-up of drunks seems like a continuous excursion."

"Anybody we know?"

Stand Firm, Bradford Urges At State University Rite

AMHERST, June 9—In a commencement address to the first class to be graduated from the University of Massachusetts, Gov. Bradford today called for steadiness in the face of "the fears and doubts to which we all of us are prey."

"You are leaving these halls," said the Chief Executive, "in a time of confusion and uncertainty. Many of you came back here from an even greater uncertainty: that of war.

"But in wartime there is a concentration of the emotions, a sublimation which gives a temporary glow even to the confusion of effort it entails. After war there comes a let-down, spiritual, emotional and economic. It is in the backwash of that let-down that you are graduated.

"The times call for steadiness, for a sober appraisal of the facts and for the power of analysis that is yours to command."

The Governor pointed out that Massachusetts was a pioneer in the history of the country, "in the building of the nation, in blazing trails fro others to follow." He warned the State must maintain its vanguard position or die economically, carrying with it to such a death all of New England.

Least to be feared is the machine, the Governor went on, because through the use of such devices the working man's labors have been cut almost in half since the turn of the century while his wages have more than doubled.

"If you are afraid of new creations," he said, "if you fear that technological improvements will cause unemployment and resist the machine, then you will be putting the brakes on your own progress. You will be closing the door on the secret of our success."

Franco Sets Referendum On His Regime July 6

MADRID, June 9 (AP)—Generalissimo Franco decreed today a national referendum July 6, on his regime and eventual return of the monarchy—but no freedom of the press, speech, assembly or other facilities for discussion of the questions involved.

The vote, the first in Spain since 1936, will be by "yes" or "no" referendum on the law of succession approved by the Cortes (parliament) Saturday. This law declares Franco chief of state and Spain a kingdom, and provides for a king or regent to succeed to power in the event of the death or incapacitation of Franco.

Sen Fu Club Sponsors Concert

The Sen Fu Club, an organization founded by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing for the Propagation of the Faith, sponsored a joint concert in Symphony Hall by Leona Flood, violinist, and Ramon Vinay, Metropolitan Opera tenor.

The artists rendered a near perfect program before a capacity house. Miss Flood was assisted by Rudolph Gruen.

Vinay showed marvelous tone and volume, rendering several arias. His selections included the Flower Song from Carmen, "I Hear as in a Dream," "The Pearl Fishers," the Credo by Goublier, a series of three Spanish folk songs.

Golf Club Gives Pastor, 69, Edge on Dud-Gun Burglar

NEW YORK, June 9 (INS)—A fighting 69-year-old Presbyterian minister, armed with a shoe tree and a golf club, successfully defended his wife against an armed intruder whom he captured and held for the police.

The Rev. Alvin E. Magary, pastor of the Lafayette Ave. Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, and his wife allegedly escaped death because the intruder loaded his German center-fire .22 revolver with the wrong kind of bullets.

Mrs. Magary, 40, had awakened to find a man in her room. He had entered by an open window from the front stoop.

The intruder, later identified as George Smith, 20, of Brooklyn, allegedly leaned over her bed, pointed a revolver at her head and said:

"Don't make a fuss. If you do, I'll kill you."

Police said Mrs. Magary slid from the bed and screamed, as the intruder seized her, bore her to the floor and tried to fire three shots at her, but the American-made rim fire bullets wouldn't go off.

Magary, bounding up the stairs, followed by his boxer dog, picked up a shoe tree, which he threw at the burglar.

The elderly pastor, who stands 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 185 pounds, grappled with the other man, who was later measured at 6 feet 1 inch and 180 pounds.

Magary said:

"Finally I landed a good right hand punch. It made him panicky. He broke away from me, ran to the window and jumped out, landing 15 feet below.

"I ran to where he had fallen. He tried to fire at me, but the gun didn't go off. I stood over him with a golf club and told him not to move."

Beef and Veal Output Heads for Record High

WASHINGTON, June 9 (INS)—The Agriculture Dept. said there possibly will be more beef and veal on American dinner tables this year than ever before. It added, however, that total meat production will only about equal last year's 23,000,000,000 pounds.

It said prices, too, would probably be the highest on record despite probability of some declines in the second half of the year.

ANNOUNCING....
New England's biggest blessed event

No new parents were ever prouder than are the 18,000 employees of the Boston and Maine Railroad and the Maine Central Railroad in announcing the biggest "blessed event" in New England's railroad history.

24 new "babies" — each of them an $85,000 beauty — which will provide the first new, postwar, super-deluxe coach trains in New England. 16 new coaches; 4 new coach-baggage cars and 4 new restaurant-lounge cars. It's a $2,000,000 improvement in New England's railroad service and another "first" for the B and M and the Maine Central.

Regardless of what certain widely publicized railroad critics say, we, like most other American railroads, are neither standpatters nor pessimists. We have been modernizing for years. The idea that we must improve passenger equipment is with us always. You'll remember, no doubt, it was these two Northern New England railroads which, 12 years ago, presented New England with the first streamlined train of any railroad east of the Mississippi.

Some 75,000 persons simply raved about our new "babies" last week when we had four of them on exhibition in 13 places from Boston's North Station to Bangor, Maine. And well they might, for nothing like them — or even approaching their luxury and comfort — has ever before been offered the traveling public in coach travel.

Today the first of them go into regular service on the Boston-Portland-Lewiston-Brunswick-Augusta-Waterville and Bangor run. Close behind will be the others so that soon all three of our crack through trains on the Boston-Bangor routes — the Flying Yankee, Kennebec, and Pine Tree — will have as their regular equipment these shiny, new, super-deluxe coaches.

Pictured here are but two of the many luxuries and comforts which these 3 new trains will provide for coach passengers.

Note the roominess of the glass-enclosed smoking lounge, with easy chairs, with which each coach is provided. Note the young lady arranging her hair in the roomy women's powder room, with make-up table and mirror and with a divan in the spacious compartment.

The new coaches have only 56 seats, providing more comfort and room for passengers. Each of the chairs is of the "Sleepy Hollow" type, with 9 different adjustable positions for reclining as you please. The windows are 6 feet wide. Fluorescent lighting makes it "daylight after dark" inside the new cars. Hand-baggage racks overhead and storage compartments for your other bags in each car. Porter service in the coaches, too.

But you've really got to see them to appreciate the luxury of train coach travel in the postwar manner. So plan now on all your trips to-and-from Maine this summer to ride these crack trains with their super-deluxe coach equipment.

It's just one more reason why smart travelers always go the dependable way —by train. Comfort, and safety, and dependability, no matter what the weather.

There's just one fly in the ointment of our pride in presenting these new trains. Strikes and shortages of materials have delayed some of the equipment for the 4 restaurant-lounge cars. The manufacturers now promise them in mid-summer. Until they arrive we shall have to operate our present dining cars with the new postwar coaches.

HERE ARE YOUR TRAIN SCHEDULES BETWEEN BOSTON and BANGOR . . .

Studio Offers $20,000 Role To Fabulous Hope Diamond

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 9—I learned from Don Hartman, who is producing Ginger Rogers' latest picture, "It Had To Be You," that Columbia studios today offered a new high in payment of property rentals when they bid $20,000 for the use of the famous Hope diamond.

The fabulous stone, which is supposed to bring bad luck to all who wear it, will be used in the wedding scene of the picture, if Hartman can borrow it from the estate of Evalyn Walsh McLean.

He wired Thurman Arnold, Mrs. McLean's attorney, for permission to rent the 44½-carat blue gem, said to embody a curse for each of its brilliant facets. Hartman wants Ginger to wear it in the wedding scene.

However, Arnold informed him that he would also have to get the permission of Frank Murphy and Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, the other executors of the estate.

According to the terms of Evalyn's will, the ill-starred jewel of misfortune is to be consigned to a storage vault for the next 20 years, until her fifth grandchild reaches the age of 25.

It was believed that the executors would feel kindly disposed toward letting Hartman and Columbia have the diamond.

There is, though, the question of how Ginger will feel about wearing the stone that Evalyn always insisted brought tragedy to whoever touched it.

Hartman, though, believes that the public not only is anxious to see the much discussed diamond at close view, but its use in the film would be a memorial to the great woman who last owned it.

PEOPLE WANT SPLIT TAX

THE Joint Legislative Committee on Legal Affairs will hold a public hearing tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the State House on the popular Community Property Tax Bill.

This will be the most important hearing of the year on Beacon Hill.

It will determine whether the people of Massachusetts are going to have their federal income taxes REDUCED as much as ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS.

Judge John J. Burns, one of the nation's outstanding jurists, and the many Senators, Representatives and leading citizens who are supporting the Community Property Bill are trying to save the people of Massachusetts this ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS IN AVOIDABLE FEDERAL TAXES.

They are offering a plan which is already operating successfully and beneficially in 10 States and which has been repeatedly approved by the United States Supreme Court.

They contend that it is unfair and unjust for the Massachusetts family to pay more taxes to the federal government than the family with the identical income pays in California, Texas, Arizona, Louisiana, New Mexico, Washington, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon and Oklahoma.

They say: "KEEP MASSACHUSETTS MONEY IN MASSACHUSETTS TO PROVIDE PROSPERITY FOR MASSACHUSETTS PEOPLE."

UNFORTUNATELY, there is a small minority opposing the Community Property Bill for various reasons, including imaginary fears, selfish ambitions, misinformation and a preference for sales taxes, gasoline taxes and other levies which the people and the Legislature do not want.

In effect, the members of this minority are asking the people of Massachusetts to lose every year enough money to create fifty thousand $40-a-week jobs, to finance two hundred thousand urgently needed new homes or to pay the real estate taxes on three hundred thousand average dwelling houses.

No matter what excuses or alibis they offer, it is clear that the persons who are opposing the Community Property Bill are actually suggesting that the people of Massachusetts LOSE AS MUCH AS ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS.

They seem to think that the people are so affluent that they can light-heartedly assume an UNNECESSARY debt burden and cheerfully give up the chance to enjoy the BIGGEST TAX REDUCTION IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

They know—or should know—that the vast majority of the people DEMAND LOWER TAXES. Yet they have the audacity to urge Senators and Representatives to do what amounts to RAISING TAXES.

REP. PETER J. JORDAN, the Republican leader, who is sponsoring the Community Property Bill with Rep. David M. Cleary, the Charlestown Democrat, says:

"The issue is very simple: If the Community Property Bill is passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor (and I predict it will be), the $100,000,000 stays in Massachusetts. But if the Community Property Bill is defeated or delayed the $100,000,000 goes out of Massachusetts FOREVER.

"We must have the Community Property Law IMMEDIATELY.

"Our people cannot afford to lose $100,000,000 while a recess commission or some other body IS SPENDING TWO YEARS DOING WORK THAT CAN BE DONE IN TWO DAYS.

"Our people certainly cannot afford to give the $100,000,000 to States like Georgia, which has just grabbed another New England textile mill.

"The person who opposes the Community Property Bill or the one who suggests putting it over for further study is NOT a proponent of Massachusetts prosperity and he is hardly a champion of the people who want better jobs, better homes and a better State."

Ninety-nine per cent of the men and women of Massachusetts agree with Representative Jordan.

WHO SAID YOU CAN'T teach an old dog new tricks? Long Islander Harland Meistrell is the owner of a Dalmatian female who for the 10 years of her life had been a house dog. Harland suddenly had the idea his dog was show material. So, though she was 10, he started to train her for exhibition. The dog learned readily and has already won an obedience prize at a show. Maybe I'll start training our dog for the shows. His father is a champion.

STATISTICS: To hand are some statistics on the sleeping habits of Americans based on some research on the subject by the John B. Pierce Foundation. Evidently those engaged in this research were determined not to overlook any details. The report on the sleeping attire among the married says that 71 per cent of wives wear nightgowns, 24 per cent pajamas and 5 per cent nothing at all.

PASSING BY: Carol Hammerstein. Daughter of Dorothy Dalton, star of the silent film era. Haven't forgotten Dorothy in "The Flame of the Yukon," have you?...Geoffrey O'Hara. Songwriter. Wrote "K-K-K-Katy." If your papa is a World War One veteran ask him to sing this ditty for you. And if the old boy is eager to do an encore ask him to sing "Where Do We Go From Here?" Following which he will probably want to sing "My Buddy" . . . Willie "Smoky" Saunders. Veteran jockey. Rode Omaha when that noble animal won the Kentucky Derby in 1935 . . . J. Farrell MacDonald. Hollywoodian. Has been a film actor for 42 years. Made his first hit playing in two-reelers with E. M. "Broncho Billy" Anderson.

ASIDES: "Jockeys, Crooks and Kings," by Winnie O'Connor, is still my favorite book about horseracing. I read it again last night . . . Never before have I seen so many different brands of Scotch whisky offered for sale in New York as now. Would seem practically all the Scotch in Scotland had been shipped over here to get United States dollars.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—What is the actual value of the Hope Diamond? A—Couldn't say. All I know is an offer of six hundred thousand dollars was recently made for it. Q—Is it a fact that London policemen do not carry guns? A—It is. The London police force is not armed. Q—It is said if you throw water on a pair of battling dogs it will separate them, but suppose there is no water handy? A—If you grab one of the fighting canines by the tail he is very likely to look around and loosen his grip on his opponent. That's what a dog expert told me. I haven't had occasion to try the suggestion out yet.

SIDELIGHTS: "King Cotton" by British Novelist Thomas Armstrong has 928 pages. That makes it the longest novel of the 20th century . . . Am informed a waitress at Gammons Restaurant, East Liberty, Pa., recently carried nine cups of coffee without a tray. Ask your favorite waitress to try to do that . . . Today on Madison ave., Manhattan, I saw a woman with light blue hair. How would you classify her? Is she a sky blonde or a bluette?

OVER THERE: The Greyhound Racing Trust Ass'n of England, owner of several dog tracks, made a profit of $8,000,000 dollars in 1946 and paid a 115 per cent dividend . . . The gambling on boxing matches in New York City continues to be terrific. Some recent bouts have looked a little peculiar. In one important bout, one of the boxers, the favorite, acted as if he had been doped.

SAYS SHE: "Where did those Hollywood producers get the idea women are wild about men with bad manners?" writes a young woman of Manhattan. "In film after film the hero is a tough, uncouth, ill-mannered lout who treats the heroine rudely and roughly. But in the end said heroine invariably falls in love with the ill-bred, roughneck hero. Women are fond of men of strong character who, when the occasion arises, will handle their wife or sweetheart firmly. But most women definitely prefer a man who is polite, courteous and considerate to an ill-bred, inconsiderate, arrogant, egotistical male no matter how handsome the latter is."

IN NEVADA: In Las Vegas, Nev., gambling is legalized and life in general is unusually gay. Nevertheless, the town has 22 well-attended churches. I haven't been to Las Vegas lately. Maybe I'll go there soon and take just one more fling at those one-arm bandit machines. In all my life I have only hit the jackpot on those gadgets once. That was long ago at Tijuana, Mexico.

"Oh, oh, I DID forget something—money!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, June 9—As most of us citizens and our government seldom remember, the United States was established for the selfish purpose of promoting the general welfare of her people and securing the blessings of liberty to them and their posterity.

Westbrook Pegler

To accomplish these purposes and to defend our nation, Congress was authorized to levy taxes.

The original method of taxation was naive by the standards of this day, but the purpose of taxation never has been changed.

It was then and it still is to pay the expenses of the operation of our government and of the defense of our country.

We never had any intention to promote the general welfare of Greece, Turkey or Great Britain, or to defend them against Communism or any other enemy.

Our people have never authorized Congress or any President, from Washington down to Truman, to spend our earned money for this purpose.

NO AMENDMENT to the Constitution has been adopted which, by any stretch of the imagination or distortion of truth, could justify the collection of income taxes from American citizens for the governments of other nations.

Such a proposal would flout the very intent stated in the preamble. The Greek and Turkish governments may be momentary, as soon to be forgotten and their debts with them as any of the thousands of June-bug lunchwagons and petty retail stores whose casual and unnoticed failures account for an enormous proportion of our bankruptcy roll, year by year.

Since the start of this century we have seen eight monarchies fall throughout the Balkans. Like the bosses of our own underworld.

The Balkan borders are elastic, stretching this way and that like battle lines, and the border peoples have no sense of nationality or loyalty.

They have seen many occasions when they were on one side at the start of a war and shooting at their own comrades at the finish.

In the last one, the Greeks hailed the poor, luckless English Tommies who were sent down to help delay the Nazis, but many of the same Greeks were shooting up other Tommies when the Germans had been driven out.

The American people don't know anything about their minute politics and the scurrying changes, so like the frantic rushing about of microbes on a slide, and we never will. These peoples themselves know very little more than that they hate the dirty dogs in yonder valley because of something that happened sometime.

THE BRITISH NATION has been permanent as we reckon permanence among nations, but that mere fact gives Britain no more right to impose taxes on George Spelvin, American, than Greece has.

If an American citizen defauts his income tax today and the Treasury gets a judgment and sells him out on the courthouse steps, after the manner of a not-so-olden day, we then have the spectacle of Uncle Sam forcibly taking a citizen's property which he has earned by work and saved by denial and handing it over to some unidentified Englishman.

The Englishman may be one of those sullen miners who decided they would rather see their country die than give an honest day's work to save her. Or he may be a very fine fellow, a hero of the war, a worker and all of that.

But, whatever his identity and character, the American citizen has no obligation under our Constitution and our laws to work to earn taxes to support him.

MOST OF OUR people have absolutely no recollection of the original debates on the income tax law and the income tax amendment.

Some were wonderfully prophetic, although the men who warned us then were scoffed at like those later stalwarts who stood red-faced to warn us against the Communist treachery and to commend the Dies Committee for its revelations.

These men predicted that, given this great power to practice extravagance and to make the people pay for it by income taxes, future Congresses and Presidents would throw our earnings to the breeze like Saturday night sports in a roaring camp.

They warned us that ten thousand spies and catchpolls would be turned loose among us to ask questions about our private affairs which, up to that time, no American citizen had ever had to answer to anybody except when he was sent to prison for a felony.

They predicted that we would become a card-index people listed in data showing how much, index people listed in data showing how much to the church and how much, if any, to maintain a mistress, and this has come true.

Five persons fled the Eastern Yacht Club in Marblehead Neck today when flames destroyed one wing of the palatial landmark, causing an estimated $50,000 damage. Fire started in the south wing, ruining the kitchen and summer dining room where (above) firemen are shown extinguishing the last of the blaze.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 9—Often I think Hollywood has taken leave of its senses olanking out hundreds of thousands of dollars for some fair-to-middlin' story or play.

But if ever a property was worth the $250,000 Warners just tapped the treasury for—it is "The Patriots." I say this not only because Sidney Kingsley's 1943 play won the New York drama critics' award and many other honors—but we need the message it carries now as we never needed it before.

The theme is a profound and stirring portrait of the founding of this republic and of Thomas Jefferson's struggle to make it a democracy. With subversive influences on all sides, we need to reaffirm our faith in the principles on which our nation was founded.

And here is more news about "The Patriots." Jack Warner has signed Bretigne Windust, who staged such hits as "Finian's Rainbow" and "State of the Union," to direct. This will be his debut as a film director and Jerry Wald, who makes good pictures, will produce. The Victor Orsatti agency sold the play.

I DON'T SUPPOSE many of you remember "Grass," "Chang," "King Kong" and other adventure stories filmed by Merian Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack some years ago. They were extremely artistic and very different.

Merian and his new partner, John Ford, have formed a company to be called Arkos and in association with RKO will make this same type of movie. On Aug. 1 "Mr. Joseph Young of Africa" starts—that's the first on the new deal. Part of it will be made at the RKO studios and part in the Belgian Congo.

Cooper refuses to tell anything about the nature of the story other than to say it is an adventure yarn.

ALEXANDER KNOX has been away from Columbia so long I forgot that he belongs to Harry Cohn, lock, stock and contract. Well, he is headin' home for the first time in three movies to play the male lead opposite Susan Peters in "Sign of the Ram," the Irving Cummings production.

Susan Peters

While he's been roving, Knox has made "Wilson" at 20th, "Sister Kenny" at RKO, and "Indian Summer."

I still stick to my story that Knox gave one of the finest portrayals ever screened in "Wilson" — but unfortunately it was not the type of role that swoons the bobby-soxers.

YOU MAY put this down as a coup for J. Arthur Rank, the British biggie. He has arranged to have a screen test made of Sharman Douglas, the attractive daughter of our new ambassador to England, Lewis Douglas.

Sharman will be presented at court in the first presentation since the war. Think of the publicity value she will bring as an English star—the daughter of an ambassador.

Well, nowadays our daughters and sons of important parents do not let their parents' high position interfere with their own desire for a career.

CHITCHAT: The inside whisper on why James Cromwell, ex-husband of Doris Duke, dropped his "dukes" and decided not to continue his legal battle contesting her divorce, is that his next bride is picked out.

My spy tells me she is a beautiful blonde actress and not unlike Doris in looks. This is not verified and must be printed as a rumor.

I'm sure if this is true that Cromwell is planning a new marriage, it won't make the richest girl in the world angry. Cromwell fought her divorce action through every court in New Jersey until just recently.

Mexico is agog over the romance of Turhan Bey and Linda Christians. While Turhan was paying devoted attention to Nancy Oakes de Marigny, Linda arrived in Mexico City with fur coats and jewelry, and Turhan and Linda resumed an old acquaintance. But Nancy didn't mind, because by that time she was ready to say au revoir to their friendship.

Nancy is leaving Mexico City and will go to France shortly, to attend her sister's graduation. She will have to return to Mexico, however, because she was married to Alfred de Marigny under British law, and the divorce won't hold anywhere in any other country.

The Maxine Elliott villa on the Riviera where she entertained such people as the Winston Churchills, King Edward VIII and other notables, has been rented for the season by Mrs. Rebecca Hamilton and Mrs. Rosita Winston.

Mrs. Hamilton, the former wife of Pierpont Morgan Hamilton, goes to England for Harper's Bazaar. She has been in Hollywood for a few days and she tells me that Maxine Elliott's house, where the Germans, Italians and finally the Red Cross made their homes during the war, was left to Lady Forbes Robertson, her sister, and a niece.

There's a chance when Lynn Bari's divorce action comes up, Sid Luft will contest it. I say "a chance" because he told me he wants to reconcile with Lynn more than anything else, and he doesn't want to do anything now until he's sure there's no hope that she will make up. Sid's attorney, Jack Leslie, said Sid would ask for an adjustment on their property—community property, that is.

On the other hand, Lynn says there isn't any chance in the world of making up.

"I don't believe that Sid really wants to make up," she said.

IF BARRY FITZGERALD wants to go to Ireland for the role of Finian in "Finian's Rainbow," the part is his for the asking. Lee Sabinson, producer of this hit musical arrived in town late tonight to make Barry the offer, and at the same time discussed the sale of the movie rights to one of the major studios.

If Barry turns Sabinson down, the producer will continue his search for just the right actor. Five hundred thousand dollars has already been refused by Sabinson. My advice is to grab that cash and grab it quick. The gravy boat is about to pull out.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Johnny Meyer, Howard Hughes associate, flew to Buenos Aires on business, and Johnny's going to continue right on to Cairo. Yes, he's flying to Cairo to meet Janet Thomas, who has already left by boat, and I won't be surprised to get a wedding announcement from there.

Lee Van Atta, well known INS foreign correspondent, goes into the Cottage Hospital at Santa Barbara. He was injured in a forced landing while covering the South Pacific during the war.

Claire Trevor's big moment is Milton Bren, and believe me, they act as if they really care.

Here's something for all the studios. Why not send the wonderful stamps that come on the foreign fan mail to veterans who are collecting? It would take very little trouble and would mean so much to them.

Well, what do you know it was Ward Bond who was buying Lynn Bari's dinner at the Chanteclair.

Marilyn Maxwell

Charlie Morrison hosted a dinner for the Adam Gimbels and David Liggetts at Mocambo. In case you don't know, Gimbel is a merchant prince and Liggett a cigaret king.

The Eddie Sutherlands gave a delightful dinner for Dorothy Manners and John Haskell at the Beverly Hills Club. Dorothy and John will be married Oct. 1 and leave for Europe immediately.

The Warren Cowans welcomed a baby girl. Papa is with the Henry Rogers office.

Joan Crawford gave a birthday party today for her daughter Christina, who is eight.

Clark Gable is at the Waldorf Astoria, and believe me, he has to sneak in and out to get away from the autograph hounds who have got wind of his arrival.

Three of Sam Coslow's film starlets planed East today to visit Chicago, Pittsburgh and New York. They will wear the new Gantner swim suits that glitter.

Darrlyn Zanuck flies to Hawaii today. She'll be the house guest of a school friend in Hilo.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

George Holland

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MUSINGS (via the Mail-box): "Dear George Holland: It was with great interest that I read your article on "off-the-track betting" . . . I have discussed the subject matter with many friends and associates who also read the article . . . It was unanimously agreed that this was the soundest principle of painless taxation brought to light as yet; it certainly points out very clearly that this is the most orderly manner in which this tax could be properly worked out.

"TO SAY THAT the proposed idea of licensing bookmakers is sound is certainly ridiculous . . . It is true we all would like to see this money now being wagered illegally converted through legal channels so that the public could benefit therefrom, instead of a few individuals . . . How could the state consistently do business with characters who have set themselves up to evade the law? . . . Would an inspector go to a bookmaker's establishment to check merely that part of his business which concerns racing and have to segregate this from number-pool, lottery, baseball, football, basketball or hockey wagering?

"THE TRACKS HAVE PROVED their responsibility to the state authorities since the inception of racing and have paid the expenses of promoting and maintaining racing while pouring millions of dollars in taxes into state and federal treasuries . . . Should we now reward them by legalizing rival betting establishments which would have a negligible overhead, and no risk whatever? . . . I believe the Massachusetts racetracks should take a hand in working out a plan with the State Racing Commission to insure the public that off-the-track wagering will be conducted in the same responsible manner as on-the-track betting . . . Co-operation and co-ordination between the tracks and the State is certainly preferable to a noble experiment that might tend to ruin the racing industry —one of our most profitable.

"I AM NEITHER a horse-race nor dog-race bettor, and if there were a betting agency next to my home I would not be a patron, but I do say that I am one of many citizens of this Commonwealth who appreciates that I may be one day a recipient of the voluntary tax that my neighbor is paying in the form of a wager on a horse or dog race."

THE CORRESPONDENT goes on to say that "morals cannot be legislated," and he believes that "staid old Massachusetts will depart from some of its old Puritanical ideas and customs and face facts more squarely in these changing and restless times" . . . But it is in the paragraph just above, in which the letter-writer classifies himself as a non-bettor but a whole-hearted proponent of the "taxes by gambling" method that this column is interested particularly.

IN THE VOTE of the writer of this letter and a million others like him rests the security of pari-mutuels racing in this Commonwealth . . . It is the sentiment expressed by this citizen when he says that "I may one day be a recipient of the voluntary tax that my neighbor is paying in the form of a wager on a horse and dog race" which insures the continued acceptance by the electorate of legalized gambling on horses and dogs in this community.

WASHINGTON, June 9—Considerable ructions were raised around the capitol the other day when Dr. Charles C. Tansill, professor of history at Georgetown University, blamed Abraham Lincoln for the Civil War.

Dr. Tansill got quite a hand when he delivered his charge because he was talking before no damYankees. He was addressing a group of loyal children of the Confederacy gathered to pay homage to Jefferson Davis.

He made his speech in front of the statue of Davis in the capitol's statuary hall. In a cold gray voice the historian charged that Lincoln "played fast and loose with Southerners in order to trick them into a bombardment of Fort Sumter and make them appear the aggressors."

I do not know what actuated Dr. Tansill in putting the slug on President Lincoln at this late date but a couple of Capitol Hill observers professed to see it as part of a Democratic plot to get back at the Republicans for trying to blame President Roosevelt for Pearl Harbor.

REP. HOWARD BUFFETT of Nebraska is a great hand at debunking. He is the fellow who caused furore in the summer of 1945 by revealing that the Office of War Information had prepared a brochure for Russian consumption in which a large part of our midwest was depicted as a desert, almost incapable of sustaining life.

The proud citizens of Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado and Utah became somewhat provoked on learning that they were practically Bedouin tribes existing in a barren waste.

Rep. Buffett has now turned his attention to the manner in which good, down-to-earth Congressmen are taken over by the international set, so that they finally forget why they were sent here. To this effect he has written a very trenchant composition. Appended is a buffett-by-buffett account of Buffett's buffetting:

In World War II, German panzers overran France, and France was quickly conquered. Has a comparable peacetime blitzkrieg taken place in America? Evidence is mounting that Washington has been overrun and conquered by "striped panzers."

Those in diplomatic circles are called "the striped pants people" because they appear regularly in the formal attire of striped pants. For foreign diplomats here, the term "striped panzers" is more appropriate. They have conquered Washington more efficiently than the German panzers did France.

Are you saying to yourself, "I don't believe it"? Well, consider this report by a top U. S. official: "The volume of commodities now moving out of east coast and gulf ports of the U. S. is twice as great as the peak volume which moved out of those ports during the war when we were supplying not only our own huge armies abroad but a tremendous volume of lend-lease supplies."

HOW DO the "striped panzers" operate? A volume could be written about their technique. I can only summarize. Cyrus Sorghum, of Podunk, Anystate, gets elected to the House or the Senate. Unaware of the pitfalls of world politics, he comes to Washington with the rugged fragrance of the good earth about him and filled with loyalty to America and the folks back home.

He secures a place on a Congressional committee having to do with foreign requests for handouts. At this point the "striped panzers" move in. They do not lobby him for handouts—heavens no! Instead, Sen. Sorghum gets invited to foreign embassies for receptions and teas. There he and Mama Sorghum meet Dukes, Lords, Earls, and a whole host of impressively titled folks.

Sen. and Mama Sorghum are treated with deference and respect such as they have never received before. They soon decide these furriners are pretty nice people after all. As for Mama, well, at Podunk she never dreamed of actually getting to associate with such aristocrats.

A few months of this intoxicating social whirl and Sen. Sorghum goes "international do-gooder" hook, line and sinker. The heady wine of social flattery has taken full effect. The Senator couldn't think of refusing loans to people who have given Mama and him such lovely attentions. The weary taxpayers at Podunk have become a hazy memory.

A BILL authorizing the District of Columbia commissioners to spend a sum not exceeding $25,000 a year for the entertainment of visiting dignitaries has been favorably reported out of committee.

For 25 G's today they ought to be able to buy the foreign notables a couple of nice hamburgers apiece, with relish and mustard yet.

Bundle Lost Off Bike Hunted in Fenway Area

Police today were seeking a bundle of clothing which Glen Bracken of Landseer st., West Roxbury, reported had been shaken from the rear seat of his two-seated motorcycle while he was passing through the Fenway.

Bracken said he lost his tuxedo, several white shirts, two blankets and a Navy type officer's coat.

Trapped 7 Hours In Elevator

Robert Callahan, 62, of Newburg ave., North Quincy, watchman in the Little Building, was trapped for more than seven hours today when an elevator went out of commission between the second and third folors.

Callahan entered the elevator at midnight and was trapped until after 7 a. m., when Carl Johnson of Massachusetts ave., South End, came to work, found the building locked and summoned police.

Officers went to the roof of an adjoining building and gained entry through a window. Callahan was rescued through the escape hatch in the elevator's roof.

Wife's Death Leap Follows Mate's

NEW YORK, June 9 (INS)—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Marshall, both lawyers, committed suicide by jumping from the window of their 17th story penthouse apartment in Greenwich Village.

The husband, 45, leaped first. His wife, Amelia, 42, raced to the hallway and sped in the elevator to the ground floor.

"Oh, good heavens," she cried. "I have to telephone Horace's brother about this."

She dashed back to the building, took the elevator to the 17th floor, and leaped from the same window from which her husband had jumped a few minutes before.

Jessie Jones Scouts Talk Of Depression

WASHINGTON, June 9 (INS)—Jesse H. Jones, Texas multi-millionaire and former head of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., told Congress today the nation faces no threat of an early depression.

Jones, in a statement to the House banking and currency committee, urged continuation of the RFC but recommended repeal of many of its present powers.

Once one of the powerful New Deal figures, Jones said:

"While there is considerable talk nowadays about a recession in business, I do not believe we can talk ourselves into a depression."

He said some reduction in the price of necessities was highly desirable and added:

"There is urgent necessity of construction work of every character, public and private, throughout the country. There is a shortage of homes to live in, and homes for business."

Jones noted the nation's banks and financial institutions were in excellent condition, but pointed out the RFC could serve a good purpose in assuring credit at reasonable rates and terms. He acknowledged there are some clouds on the horizon, international-wise, that could affect our economy.

French Union Leaders Seek Strike Peace

PARIS, June 9 (AP)—Union leaders held out a tentative peace bid today in a strike that has stopped passenger train service throughout France, but the government made no reply and went ahead building up an emergency transport system of buses and private cars. Some were soldier driven.

Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier has balked at negotiating until the trains are running again. Prior to last night, the union had said it would not send its men back until its claims had been satisfied.

WRONG CITY

LOS ANGELES, June 9 (AP)—That magnificent hand-wrought silver service on the USS Los Angeles is embossed with the great seal of the City of San Francisco, visitors to the $80,000,000 heavy cruiser discovered.

It seems Los Angeles city fathers never got around to appropriating $25,000 needed for the traditional tribute, and as the war-weary USS San Francisco has been inactivated, officials said the Navy transferred the silverware to the USS Los Angeles.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHEN, EVEN DURING THE WAR, a very few of us suggested that Soviet Russia was an imperialist power that sought to unite all of Europe and Asia under a Russian hegemony, even more completely than Hitler and the Nazis ever dreamed possible, we were ridiculed. Most people did not believe that.

Yet, it grows increasingly clear that the original Bolshevik program of a one world—a Soviet world—is moving with a momentum that can only lead to the alternatives of the acceptance of their program or the most devastating war in history.

Not only do the Russians not give an inch but they take entire countries. The most recent is Hungary. Is the next to be Italy or Austria or both? And then, which way will they turn?

The answer grows increasingly tragic for Europe. Once Great Britain could withstand the menace from the continent; any menace, even Napoleon and Hitler. But Socialism is rapidly sapping British strength as it has already sapped French strength. Let us not fool ourselves: Not a nation in Europe can put up any sort of fight against Russia, not unless we did the fighting for them.

IT IS an amazing picture: Less than 300,000,000 people in the United States, Canada, South Africa, Australia, New Zeland, the Argentina, and Brazil today carry the rest of the human race on their shoulders.

These are the principal remaining capitalistic countries and they are sustaining world Socialism. The Socialist countries not only cannot assist each other but they cannot provide for themselves.

Hungary, at the very moment that it went over to Russia by a coup d'etat, was actually accepting assistance from the United States. Italy, in which the struggle over Communism is now the fiercest in Europe, seeks American financial aid. Yet, they all complain about the political role of the American dollar.

Do these nations really expect us to pay for our own destruction? Do they expect us to impoverish our own people to finance their experiments in Socialism and their subservience to Communism? Do they anticipate that we enjoy being bled white while they permit Russia to ravage them?

THE ANSWER to all these questions is that from the day we entered World War II until today we have permitted ourselves to be blackmailed, first by our Allies and now by every country that we have liberated from the Nazi yoke. In effect they say to us, "Give us what we demand of your wealth or productivity or we shall go over to the Russians and then you will have to go to war!"

But do we have to go to war? What are we really afraid of? The Russians will never fight unless they are sure that there is not sufficient strength left in the United States to win a war. I see no evidence that they believe that.

What they do believe is that we are ready to pay blackmail. They have reason to believe that because we have paid so much. But if we stop paying, what will they do? In a word, is there not sufficient wisdom and diplomacy left in the United States to turn that table, to force the Europeans to recognize that the treasure hunt in the United States is over?

THAT SOUNDS horrible. It is horrible. It is almost inhuman because people are hungry. Yet, we are dealing with brutes who envy us our productivity and our wealth and who would use us until we are brought down to their level.

No conquering country, for instance, has abused Hungary as the Russians have; yet a Hungarian minority is able to take over that country and hand it to Russia. And Togliatti can do exactly that in Italy when he is ready to seize power. And Thorez and Duclos can probably do just that in France.

Well, let them. That is what the United States ought to tell these European countries. And the people of the United States ought to tell that to our own appeasers inside our own government, and in our Congress, and in the universities, and to Henry Wallace. We ought to say:

"Billions for suffering humanity; not one American dollar for blackmail!"

Devers Warns U. S. to Arm Or Risk Defeat

NORTHFIELD, Vt., June 9 (AP)—Gen. Jacob L. Devers today told the Norwich University graduating class of 132—all World War II veterans, except one—that without universal military training "defeat for the United States, and the world, at the hands of a conquering foe is not inconceivable."

Asserting there were only two and one-third regular Army divisions within the United States itself to resist invasion, the Army ground forces commander said:

"How serious our situation is without universal military training without a competent citizen soldiery, is not fully realized."

Warning that in the next war, we will not be given the time to gather our resources, train men and produce weapons," he said:

"It is equally obvious that we will not be attacked, this time, on the high seas alone, or only at some far-flung outpost like Hawaii or the Philippines. We would be attacked most savagely Everywhere simultaneously, there and right here at home."

Holdup Suspect Says $60 a Gift

Alexander L. Smith of Larch rd., Cambridge, disagreed emphatically with a holdup suspect in police lineup today.

The prisoner, a North End youth, admitting he had Smith's wallet, said he had been resting after a street fight with a sailor when Smith walked up and pressed the wallet on him. The suspect said he was delighted to find $60 inside.

The fact of the matter, countered Smith, was that he forked over the wallet because he didn't want to be shot. Police are investigating the suspect's background.

TRY THIS FRIENDLY QUIZ IN YOUR FAMILY

1. She's just settled down with a "best seller" when the hall telephone rings. Does she . . .

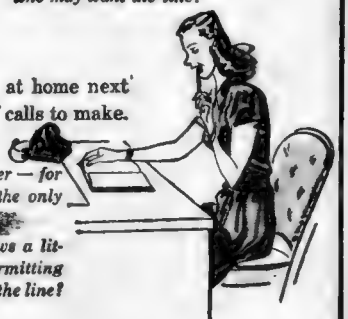
(a) Finish the page she's reading—taking her time about answering?

(b) Answer as promptly as possible because she knows how annoying a neglected ring can be to others who are sharing the line?

2. She has some eye-popping news that she just has to call one of the girls about. Does she . . .

(a) Exhaust the subject in all its aspects — tying up service for some time?

(b) Get to the heart of the story quickly — remembering the other people who may want the line?



3. She's having a party at home next week and there are lots of calls to make. Does she . . .

(a) Make one call after another — for hours — reasoning that's the only way to get it done?

(b) Make certain that she allows a little time between calls — permitting others to have their turn at the line?

As you've probably guessed, answer B to each question is correct. In such ways, the whole family will be acting as good party line neighbors.

P.S. As more new equipment is obtained in the future, we will gradually be able to provide individual telephone service to all who want it. Meantime, by putting people on party lines, we are able to give service to many who otherwise couldn't have had it for some time.

Whip Up New Facial Glow

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH isn't so very far away. And, undoubtedly, you're looking forward to it . . . and if the truth be known . . . to glorifying yourself for this glorious holiday. It is a day to have fun and to celebrate sanely and wisely. But with the celebrating . . . comes the personal and personable YOU to make the event a real calendar event.

GLORIFYING the glorious Fourth . . . with her bicycle appropriately decked out in bunting and with an adequate supply of fireworks . . . lovely blonde Paramount star Joan Caulfield is set for a typical American Fourth of July . . . ready to match her sparkling beauty with the sparklers that will flood the skies with color and design.

You and the boy friend . . . and a host of friends . . . assemble at home . . . or a beach resort to do traditional honors to the Fourth. But how about a little of your own sparkle to sparkle with the sparklers? How about your bang-up beauty vying for honors with bang-bang fireworks?

The glorious FOURTH is one day when we can not afford to be dull . . . when we must participate in the joy and jollity of a holiday. But it is the girl with the happy and pretty face who gets the chance to make merry on such an occasion. So prepare for the dolling up event with an intriguing countenance that will get you as many admirers as fireworks get spectators.

Lighting up the face is not contingent upon makeup. The lighting up we urge comes from the radiance that is synonymous with a vibrant, wide-awake complexion. Of itself . . . it is alive and alight with all the color and fire of any pyrotechnic sparkler. So let's rout facial dullness and listlessness . . . complexion sluggishness which produces a muddy expanse of skin that is neither receptive to makeup nor second glances.

WHIPS UP CIRCULATION FAST

A perfectly grand facial alerter . . . one that specifically has for its purpose complexion awakening . . . is a circulation cream which tingles the skin into a cigar-store Indian ruddiness . . . which after it disappears leaves the skin as smooth as velvet and just as gorgeous. A brownish-colored cream because it contains a very special ingredient . . . it is particularly wonderful for the oily, sallow or blemished skin.

It's a cream that works with nature and helps clear the skin giving it a fresh, delicate appearance. Leave it on only for three to five minutes . . . until you feel a warm glow. And this we promise you'll feel . . . a mighty warm glow . . . forcing a fresh supply of blood to the complexion to rout the stale look from the skin. Don't put it too near the eyes . . . for it is ever so potent.

It is one of the best complexion stimulants we've ever tried . . . for it whips up circulation fast and furiously. If your skin is sensitive . . . apply this cream over a light film of cleansing cream . . . and warm up your skin to a most wonderful ruddiness . Only when you feel this warm, tingling glow are you certain that impurities are being forced out of the skin to make it crystal-clear and petal-smooth. And don't be scared of its nippiness!

For the name of this circulation cream for a whipped-up new facial glow and smoothness, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, daily except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Let Children Play Hosts, Mix Own Milk Drinks

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IT IS A WISE PARENT who purchases plenty of milk and ice cream to have on hand for the children's refreshment during the warm weather. In fact, there's nothing more refreshing or pleasing to the palate of anyone in the family than a cold milk drink.

BLOUSES will play an important fashion role this fall . . . and this black creper with jewel neckline and a decor of beaded brilliance will be one of the new season's hits. By Michael of Boston . . . the blouse won a Spinning Wheel Award . . . issued by the Boston Market Week . . . for its ingenuity of design and charming beauty. Although insinuating a one-piece look . . . the skirt, separate, is another Boston-made design . . . by Peerless Sportswear. —R. M.

Whatever the flavor, these drinks are packed with delicious goodness that will give a zest for living. Let the children mix and serve their own or those for the whole family —they'll enjoy the experience and it will teach them how to be good hosts and hostesses at the same time.

Plain butter cookies, or simple wafers, are a most appropriate accompaniment.

Wants to Leave Home

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a girl of 17 and will be 18 in June. This summer I want to go to Idaho and Washington and then to California to stay. I have relations in all these places. I work, and am saving a lot of money for these trips.

My parents were divorced when I was 14, and since then I have lived with a married sister. Mother married again, and my stepfather is forever telling me what to wear, where to go and what to do. They both agree that I shouldn't take these trips, and say they will do anything to stop me.

What I want to know is, would you advise me to leave without telling them? When I'm 18, haven't I a right to do as I please? Have they any right to hold me back?

"HEADACHES."

Dear "Headaches":

I don't like to tell any girl to go against the wishes of her parents. Yet it seems to me that yours is rather a special case, since not only your father but even your mother relinquished their care of you when you were very young and turned you over to your married sister. You don't say what your sister thinks, and since she has been your counselor for the past four years, don't you think you might ask her advice?

Personally, I can't see any harm in your taking these trips if you are planning to stay with relatives wherever you go. I don't believe it would be very smart to go off on your own to places where you had no friends. As far as your legal right to act independently is concerned, you are permitted to marry in your state without the consent of your parents, so I should imagine they could not legally control you if you wished to leave home. But if you want to be absolutely in the clear on this, you should consult a lawyer.

Puffed-up Bow Is Lovely

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

THE simple bow, all puffed up with its new importance, has become a high style note in this Summer's cottons. The old familiar friend of our pigtail days is moving in better circles now that the best designers have stamped it with their approval.

The exaggerated bow, strategically placed, gives lovely drapery to fine cottons. Bows are used with telling effect in combination with the draped and slanted peplums that lift this year's cottons straight out of the working class. Sometimes the peplum swathes the front of the dress and ties in back with a huge bow that gives an elegant bustle effect. Sometimes it decorates one hip, balancing a sweeping, slanted front peplum. Or again, a pair of bows may finish off a low neckline and serve the double purpose of providing small semisleeves.

The Adele Simpson dress sketched today is of granite chambray. Large buttons fasten one shoulder and one side of the bodice. The long, one-sided peplum slants up the waistline where it is gathered into a huge bow. A brilliant rhinestone pin tops the bow.

Universal Training Will Save Lives If War Comes, VFW Told

By WALTER NAUGHTON

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., June 9—"There would be many less white crosses in United States military cemeteries throughout the world if we had been prepared for World War II.

"Many of our hero dead gave their lives in combat because they were not adequately trained to protect themselves.

"We can avoid a repetition of this in case war comes again, by enaction of universal military training laws for the youth of the nation."

Delegates attending the 27th annual state encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars heard this warning from Dept. Chaplain Rev. Charles P. Vail of Los Angeles.

Impressive memorial services were held at the municipal auditorium as the convention went into full swing. All Santa Cruz churches held special memorial ceremonies.

With Gov. Warren as principal speaker, Dept. Comdr. Charles P. Ash of Glendale opened the first of three business sessions today. It was a joint session with the VFW Auxiliary which is also holding its state meeting here with Mrs. Esther Henderson, president, of Los Angeles, in charge.

National Junior Vice Comdr. Lyall T. Beggs of Madison, Wis., arrives by air today to represent VFW national headquarters and National Comdr. Louis E. Starr, who is in Washington, D. C., leading the campaign of his organization for universal military training.

Gaily decorated in flags and bunting, Santa Cruz is swarming with former fighting men, and the attendance is expected to reach the 15,000 mark. Many are World War I veterans and approximately 50 per cent of the present state VFW membership of 100,000 is out of World War II.

The main event of public interest will be the annual encampment parade set for Tuesday afternoon, when 10 full divisions will be in the line of march.

The resolutions committee worked all day, going over more than 300 resolutions proposed by the state's 513 posts. These deal with universal military training, national defense, Americanism, alien immigration, veterans' housing and other subjects of national interest to be presented to the convention on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Boy Swimmer Killed by Plane

OWOSSO, Mich., June 9 (AP)—James Evans, 14, was killed by the whirling propeller of a low-flying plane and two companions with whom he was swimming narrowly escaped death.

Harold Ferrell, 19, of Flint, student pilot of the craft, and a passenger were held without charge pending a coroner's inquest.

Undersheriff James Wood quoted Ferrell as saying he flew over the water-filled pit "to see how many people were swimming there," and that the engine of his plane lost power and nosedived the second time over the pool.

FOURTH BLAST VICTIM DIES

DENVER, June 9 (AP)—The death toll in a Denver apartment house explosion rose to four with the death of Mrs. Carrie Christiansen, 79.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—Is there any control for grasshoppers and crickets in the garden?

A—Spread poison bran mash as you would for cutworms. Treat garden once a week. DDT spread around the edge of the garden may also help.

Q—Can the Belmont tomato be staked?

Q—Can liquid fertilizer be made from chemicals?

A—Yes. Dissolve half cup of 5-8-7 fertilizer in a gallon of water. Treat potted plants once a month when watering. Also good for plants that start slow in the garden.

Q—What is the new formula for killing crab-grass in lawns?

A—A product known as Tact-C-Lact has proven effective in trial plots. I do not believe this material is on the market now, but it will be soon.

Q—Does plantain cause hay fever?

A—Some people are affected by the pollen from the narrow-leaved plaintain. 2-4-D weed killer will eradicate the weed.

Q—Will 2-4-D weed killer damage vegetable plants if it is used around the garden?

A—It will kill vegetables, flowers and shrubs. When spraying with this material do not let the wind blow it on any broad-leaved plant that you wish to save.

Bryant-Jaynes

THE MARRIAGE of Helen Jaynes of West Newton to Roland A. Bryant, Jr., of St. Louis, took place Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julian Jaynes of West Newton. Rev. John Fisher of Framingham Unitarian Church officiated and the reception was in the garden.

The attractive blonde bride wore a white jersey gown made on Grecian lines with a jersey sash and long sleeves with deep cuffs. Her headdress of white silk jersey was fashioned like that of the Nun in "The Miracle" and she carried calla lilies.

Patience Lauriat of Hull was maid of honor and Robert Haynes, brother of the bride, best man.

The bride attended Dana Hall and Smith College and is an artist specializing in fashion illustration. Mr. Bryant, son of Roland Bryant of St. Louis, graduated from Harvard Law School. He served five years as an officer in the Naval Air Corps.

The newlyweds will spend the summer in Canada.

A PRESSURE COOKER, choice china cups and saucers and monogrammed linens are some of the useful things Harriet Wilson has to start housekeeping with as a result of the shower giver for her by Phyllis "Fifi" Long of West Cedar st.

Fifi will be a bridesmaid at Harriet's wedding to Foster Boardman of Hingham, June 21, in St. Stephen's Church, Cohasset, where the prospective bride's father is rector.

Harriet Wilson

Shower guests included Harriet's three sisters, Mrs. Malcolm Seymour, Madeline and Caroline Wilson. Also Louise Clark, her cousin, Nancy Boardman, her future sister-in-law, Mrs. Edwin B. Holmes (Nancy Rice), Pricilla Hunnewell, Mrs. Polly Long Chase and Mrs. Harry Anderson (Patty Matz).

Rev. Charles E. Wilson of Cohasset will officiate at his daughter's wedding and the reception will be at home. Harriet graduated from Beaver Country Day and made her debut in 1942-43.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boardman of Hingham, graduated from Harvard in 1945. His clubs include Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770, D. U., and Cohasset Golf Club. He was a captain in the Third Infantry Division in Europe and awarded the Silver Star for action along the Siegfried Line.

NOTES FROM a Society Editor's Cuff: Mary Allen Snyder of Hingham, who has been a career girl in fashion modelling since her debut a few years ago, has returned from the West Coast where she modelled in a specialty shop the past winter.

Mrs. Geraldine Clark Mandell of Boston will change her address to Nantucket for the summer. She looks forward to a visit from her newly married son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Craig, who live at Dawson College, N. B. The bridegroom is an instructor there.

Spanish War Film Hit at Old South

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Man's Hope," eight-year-old, Spanish-made film based on the Andre Malraux novel which received the Louis Delluc award (French equivalent of our Oscar) when it was first shown in France after the liberation, is the arresting, unprededuced presenstation of two actual incidents in the Spanish civil war.

Now showing on the Old South Theater screen, it is remarkable for its harsh simplicity, its stark under-fire brutality and/or civilian courage, its magnificently undramatized drama.

Shots during the 1938 bombardment in Barcelona, with the accompanying on-the-spot recording of monotonous machine-gunning and explosive light artillery, provide the opening sequences.

This is real, you know, even if it isn't professional as the camera, disregarding the results of the bombardment, swerves to a band of Spanish citizens and a two-bomber Loyalist squadron who are attempting to destroy a bridge.

Before it can be destroyed, a new Franco airfield must be located and neutralized. A peasant presents himself. No, he cannot read a map but he knows the location of the airport. As he is taken aloft in a bomber, there is a genuine sense of suspense as, unaccustomed to sighting anything from the air, he tensely examines the doll-house landscape for the airfield.

There is the heartstopping quality of unrehearsed, real-life drama in the sequences following the bombing of the airfield. The plane crashes high in the mountains, and a human chain of tragic-eyed but otherwise stony-faced peasants compose a procession bearing the dead and dying heroes down the mountain.

For contrast, there is a French film, "Extenuating Circumstances," that is one of the most typically, gaily Gallic that you'll ever laugh through. Arletty and Michael Simon, those incomparable performers, are its stars. Stay through to see it.

Glenn Ford Stars in 'Framed'

With Glenn Ford's name on the marquee and a taut if not very subtle story, Columbia's "Framed," the attraction now heading the Trans-Lux and Majestic screen bills, should mean box office business.

Ford, playing an unemployed mining engineer who becomes involved with a gorgeous blonde (Janis Carter) who is plotting to loot a bank of $250,000. She is the mistress of the bank's vice-president, played by Barry Sullivan.

The angle is for Ford, whom she pretends to have switched to romantically, to be responsible for the theft and to be killed.

She kills her sweetheart-banker but Ford, resistant to her two-timing charms, proves her guilt.

Frankly, "Framed" is not up to Ford's speed, he having enjoyed the hottest box office rating until he was allowed to be out of circulation. It is, though, "Framed" I mean, good stuff for Trans-Lux and Majestic fans. P. D.

44Agree Boudreau Of Cleveland Real Standout

By HERB FINNEGAN

CLEVELAND, June 9—There's always fun in Cleveland, where today the Red Sox open a three-game series with the struggling Indians. There's always fun because of (1) Bill Veeck's bizarre promotional ideas and his portable fence; (2) Monsieur Lou Budd'ro, his enjoyable dugout tete-a-tetes and his fluid infield shifts; (3) the seriousness with which Clevelanders take their baseball, even editorial writers trying their hand at managing the club.

Billy Evans, was talking about Veeck's fence.

"He wanted me to let him put it up in the fourth inning of our April 28 games there," said the Detroit general manager. "That's right. Wanted to stop the game and make a ceremony of the event.

"I couldn't help thinking of Ban Johnson, and how uneasy he would rest in his grave if I gave my consent," Billy continued, "so I said 'nothing doing.' If it goes up, it'll go up before the game. Now I see the opposition has been benefiting more (14 home runs) by the fence than his own club (six home runs) so he's done away with 100 feet of it at each foul line."

It is Billy's idea and that of Cleveland editorial writers that the fence, like the one the Braves put up in the '20's, would be better dispensed with.

Lou Boudreau didn't make the 1946 All-Star team but ballplayers generally rank him with the all-time greats.

Detroit's Roy Cullenbine, who played three years with Boudreau, says unhesitatingly that Boudreau is the greatest player in the game today and a smart manager.

The Sox Birdie Tebbetts is inclined to agree.

"Boudreau," says Birdie, "was born a .290 hitter, yet made himself one of baseball's best by determination and application, as Cronin did 20 years ago.

"I'll never forget the first time I saw him," the Sox catcher continued. "It was in 1937 when Cleveland was playing in Detroit. He came in from University of Illinois for a tryout. He had sideburns like they wore in the gay '90's and when he went to bat and doubled up like the letter 'S' with his bat sticking up over his head like a stove-pipe, boy, he was a tintype. You'd never think then that he'd become one of the game's most feared batsmen."

Nor did anybody else foresee Boudreau's greatness at bat. Boudreau came up with Ray Mack and they were the All-Star keystone duo in their freshman year.

"At that time I thought Mack would be the better hitter," Joe Cronin admits. But Mack is now in the minors, Boudreau won the batting championship (.327) in '44, would have won it again in '45 had not Dolph Camelli broken his (Lou's) ankle and is a challenger for the title this year.

Boudreau is Hall's-Of-Fame material if for no other reason than the shift he devised against Ted Williams last year. It cost Williams the batting championship, made him a .200 hitter in the World Series. Now every club in the league shifts against him and he's limping along at .290 gait instead of his customary .355.

Williams a year ago was up in the .370's. He had everybody on the club up there with him. As a result the Sox had the pennant won in June. Not this June however, maybe not in September. Every club needs a batting leader, a spearhead. With the exception of occasional outbursts by Williams, Moses and Mele, they haven't had one all season.

That's why they're under the .500 mark and five games off the pace. It would seem that Mons. Lou Budd'ro is the cause of it all.

Cardinal O'Connell Memorial Golf Tourney Billed Today

More than 200 K. of C. golfers from every section of the state tee off at Woodland today in the 3d annual Cardinal O'Connell Memorial Tournament, sponsored by the Cardinal O'Connell Council 2919, Knights of Columbus.

Over the 18-hole route, competition is open to K. of C. members, guests and priests, with special prizes for each bracket.

Team play for the Cardinal O'Connell Memorial Cup, currently held by Redberry Council of Dorchester; the Ex-Gov. Tobin Cup, in possession of Walpole Council, and the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Memorial Trophy in the hands of Pere Marquette Council, South Boston, will be a highlight.

Four-man teams from Attleboro, Brighton, Woburn, Brookline, Taunton, Wellesley, Medford, Gloucester, Allston, Springfield, New Bedford, Milton, Brookline, Worcester, Dedham, Newton and Chestnut Hill are entered to challenge the current titleholders. Three legs are necessary for permanent ownership of these cups.

Rev. David O'Brien of St. Mary's Parish, North Attleboro, winner of the Priest's Division at Wollaston last year, has signified his intention of being on hand to defend his title, and Tom Higgins of Commonwealth C. C., and now a member of the host council, will also be on hand and is expected to repeat his 1946 win. Bernie Dwyer of Wollaston, winner of the 1945 tournament, will also tee off.

Many prominent amateur golfers, including Joe Lynch, "Deak" Chilton, Joe Hubberman, Al Dercole, Tom Brophy, Teddy Adams and a host of others have filed advance entries to compete for the 50 prizes offered.

Earl Torgeson Put an End to Johnny Schmitz' Hill Myth

By BILL GRIMES

Due to the jig-saw puzzle schedule, inclement weather and a "high-jacking job" by the so-called Three Musketeers of Wrigley Field, "G.M." Jimmy Gallagher, "Mgr." Charley Grimm and "Rd. Sec." Bob Lewis, tonight's game at the Wigwam will mark the second time that the Braves and Cubs have clashed in the current National League campaign.

On their first swing through the East, the Chicago Cubs encountered some unusual weather during their two-day visit here. They were listed to play the Tribe in the first night game of the season on May 2 and to wind up their stay the following day with an afternoon tilt. But, because of the unusual weather, gin rummy was substituted for baseball and with the exception of Big Bill Lee, none of the Cubs dared to defy the elements even to visit Braves Field.

The Braves' first port of call on their western trip was Chicago. They'd been in New York for five days, prior to going to the Windy City, splitting a four-game series with the Giants and losing a single game to the Dodgers at Ebbets Field. As that series with New York was played before the Giants or any other club realized the potentialities of the Ottmen, the Tribe was riled no little over their performances in the Polo Ground.

Then, upon their arrival in Chicago, the Braves were confronted by the best press of the year. No, the Braves were not the recipients of the "write-ups." The "rave" notices went to Johnny Schmitz, an ex-woodsman from Wisconsin, who had come up from Milwaukee in the fall of 1941 and had received credit for his first National League victory after pitching to one batter, "Cookie" Lavagetto.

The Cubs' scriveners went out on a limb for Herr Schmitz, without a dissenting typewriter. Most of them went so far out as to state that all the Cubs had to do was to get Herr Schmitz one run and the Braves would be "dead pigeons."

There isn't any question in my mind but that Manager Billy Southworth made an issue of the Schmitz build-up. And, judging from what happened that afternoon, Herr Schmitz believes what he reads in the newspapers. And that goes double for the Wrigley Field "brass."

The weather was threatening all morning and an hour before game time, the skies opened up and delayed the start of the contest for 35 minutes. Although the Cubs were in first place, less than 12,000 fans were on hand, because of the elements. But, the Chicago management insisted upon playing and Warren Spahn started against the great Schmitz.

Well to make a long story short, Earl Torgeson batted in enough runs to beat the Cubs single handed. Herr Schmitz couldn't get the Snohomish boy out. "Torgy" tagged him for a single, a two bagger and a three run homer, which sailed majestically over the right field barrier and crashed against a building on the far side of Sheffield ave., putting the Braves out in front 5 to 3 and the ex-woodsman went to the showers after that inning. "Torgy" came up with a two run double off Emil Kuch in the 9th and the Braves coasted home to a 7 to 4 win.

About 11 o'clock the following morning the Braves were notified that the second game had been called off because of cold weather. It was chilly, but the sun was shining and the game could have been played, and probably would have, if the Tribe hadn't upset the cart the previous day by pinning Herr Schmitz' ears back.

Originally, Manager Billy Southworth planned to use John Sain tonight against the Cubs. But, when yesterdays's twin bill with the Reds was washed out Southworth announced that Charley "Red" Barrett would go tonight and that Sain would get the nod tomorrow afternoon.

Clyde Shtoun, the veteran lefthander, recently obtained from the Cincinnati Reds, is expected to report to Manager Southworth today, or tomorrow at the latest. If he is ready for action, Shoun probably will make his debut as a Brave against the Cubs in one of Wednesday's games.

Phil Masi has caught 39 of the Braves' 45 games. And he was used as a pinch hitter on two occasions. On the other hand, Hank Camelli, who has started behind the plate in only seven games, has caught four winning contests.

Gen. Mgr. John J. Quinn hopes to put over a deal or two before the deadline, which is next Sunday. He would like to obtain a right-handed outfielder. But, the trouble is that every National League club realizes that if Billy Southworth gets any help whatsoever the Braves will have just as good a chance as any team to win the pennant.

At long last, Sibby Sisti has become a fixture at shortstop for the Braves. He has been sensational defensively and his hitting is improving steadily. I predict that Sisti will come into his own on the next trip through the West. The fans admire Sisti's speed and hustle and are pulling for him, at all times.

GRIMES.

Johnny Murphy's Relief Work Red Sox Feature

CLEVELAND, June 9—Tex Hughson (2-5) and Don Black were to pitch today . . . Dave Ferriss and Hal Newhouser never before had met in a pitcher's duel. They had been on the same double-header bill quite often but Cronin, because Ferriss bats left handed used him against the right-hander.

Newhouser had all the best of the Sunday game in Detroit. He gave the Sox only four hits and didn't let a man reach third base. He won 5-0. Ferriss was combed for five runs, nine hits in 6 2-3 innings. Newhouser drove in Detroit's first two runs. Ferriss made one of the four hits off the lefty, Gutteridge two and Tebbetts one . . . To show the type of ball the Red Sox were playing, Tebbetts and Gutteridge hit their doubles in the same inning, but the Sox didn't score because Tebbetts was out at third when Ferriss missed a hit-and-run bunt . . . It was the fifth time this year the Sox have been shut out, and Ferriss has been the victim three times . . . Once by Feller, once by Reynolds, once by Chandler . . . Feller gave the Sox one hit, Reynolds and Chandler two apiece and Newhouser four. If the Sox don't hit better, Ferriss will have to struggle to win his 20 . . . Sox have won only four, last 10 on this trip, a last-place gait.

Johnny Murphy hasn't given up a hit in his last 10 2-3 innings as a relief pitcher . . . Mele's tumbling gloved-hand catch of Wertz' dunker in short center was the best fielding performance of the day . . . Difference between the 1946 and 1947 Sox is that this year's club doesn't win the big games. They were supposed to sweep the three-game series in Detroit. Rain caused two postponements and they muffed the big one. Rain also brought Kell off the hospital list in a hurry, gave Detroit an opportunity to use its best pitcher. Kell's two-run double drove Ferriss from the box, and Kell played with his right finger as stiff as a bone. He's a Southern gentleman from Arkansas is Kell, and he said of his spiking by Stirnweiss, "It couldn't have been avoided. The ball came on a short hop and I had to go up the line to prevent it from breaking through me and going into the dugout . . . Ball and Stirnweiss arrived simultaneously and I got hurt but I saved the run" . . . Doctor said Kell would be out 10 days. He was out three, missed only one game. He denied the Johnson-Wagner feud was an afterwash of the spiking, "had nothing to do with it," he said.

Billy Goodman came off the defense list today but probably will make the trip home to Boston even though he can't appear in uniform. "Don't know where we'll place him," says Cronin. Probably in Toronto . . . York, who hit .083 in Detroit last year, hasn't made a hit in 11 trips to the plate there this year . . . Dom DiMaggio reports condition of his pulled shoulder muscle "not so good," and may be sidelined for sometime yet. Browns' Vern Stephens was out five weeks with a similar injury in '46 . . . After Ferriss singled in the sixth, he took Mayo out of a play at second with a body-check. If everybody slid and fought like Ferriss, the Sox would be nearer first place . . . With both Feller and Embree out of the way, the Sox ought to sweep the series. But they ought to be doing a lot of things they're not doing.

Lynn Takes N. E. Lead

(AP)—Lynn's Red Sox, pennant winners in the 1946 season, today lead the New England League with a quarter of the 1947 season in the record books.

Only a game and a half behind in second place in the Class B circuit, which had all its games rained out yesterday, are the Nashua Dodgers.

The Dodgers finished second a year ago and then conquered the Sox in the final playoffs for the cups, donated by governors of the four New England states which have teams in the loop—Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The Lawrence Millionaires, who kept pace for the league lead up to last week, are in third place four games off the pace.

Greatest surprise of last week was the skid of the Providence Chiefs from fourth to sixth place. Manchester's Giants slipped into fourth and the reviving Fall River Indians took over fifth.

To Pay Tribute to Eddie Casterline

DRACUT, June 9—A moment of silence will be observed tonight at the Speedway in tribute to champion Eddie Casterline, New England champion, as his former racing mates compete again in a program of seven races, under floodlights, scheduled to get underway at 7:45.

Casterline, a Reading driver, was killed over the week-end in a crack-up in Rhode Island.

Competing for top honors in this program will be Bobby Blair, Dedham, runner-up to the title; Dick Shubruck, Brighton; Oscar Ridlon, Roxbury; Hermie DeLisle, Lowell; and Billy Randall, Reading. This will be another of the regular Monday night speed sessions.

Fall River Girl Wins in British Golf

GULLANE, Scotland, June 9 (AP)—Ruth Woodward of Fall River, Mass., won her way into the second round of the British women's amateur golf championship today by defeating Nancy C. M. Jupp of Longniddry, Wales, 2 up. Helen Sigel of the Philadelphia Country Club won her first round match, easily defeating Mme. Phillipe Eloy of Morfontaine, France, 7 and 6.

Babe Didriksen Zacharias also won her first match by defeating Helen Nimmo of Gullane, six and five.

Miss Woodward had the closest call of the three Americans.

The Bay State contender started uncertainly, but got a half on the first, recovered beautifully after slicing her drive on the second for another half, but dropped the fourth when another tee shot went wrong.

She squared the match at the firth when Miss Jupp had trouble on the green and went out in front on the eighth. She protected her margin on the ninth by sinking a 30-foot putt.

Miss Woodward lost the 10th when she three-putted but regained her advantage on the 11th and then went 2 up by sinking a 50-footer for a four on the 12th.

Miss Juyy cut the margin to a single on the 15th but three-putted on the final green to give the American girl her margin.

Their cards:

Out
Miss Woodward	5	6	4	4	4	5	4	5	3	—41
Miss Jupp	5	4	4	3	6	4	5	5	3	—43
In
Miss Woodward	7	5	4	3	5	4	4	4	4	—42—83
Miss Jupp	6	6	5	3	5	5	4	4	5	—43—86

Mrs. Zaharias breezed through the first round.

Fighting a cold, finger-stiffening west wind, the Babe had difficulty on the first two holes and confessed later, "I was trying to punch them too hard." She began to relax on the third hole and to swing more deliberately.

The calmer approach paid dividends for the American champion, winner of 15 successive tournaments before she came to Scotland in quest of the big British prize. She reached the turn three up and closed the match in the next four holes.

Her slick four on the twelfth was the kind of golf that any male champion would have been proud of. Although her second wood was in the rough, she succeeded in chipping to within 10 feet of the cup, then dropped the putt.

"I'm glad the first round's over with," she commented as she hiked in more than a mile from the thirteenth green. "That's always the tough one. From then on it's easy."

The Babe started out after the championship well wrapped up against the piercing wind from the Firth of Forth. Over a cotton blouse she wore a wool shirt and checkered sweater. Faded corduroy blue slacks covered her legs, and for a while she had the bottoms tied with string to keep them from shipping in the breeze.

Hingham Boys to Be Honored In Big Show Next Friday

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Despite traditional superstitions, next Friday—the 13th—will be a lucky one for scores of youthful anglers and hunters of the Hingham area, for the Hingham Sportsmen's Club is holding its second annual Father and Son Night in the Hingham Armory, the fun beginning at 8 o'clock. A long and colorful program has been arranged, highlighted by an exhibition of 15 dogs in obedience tests, under the direction of the South Shore Dog Training Club.

Bait, fly and surf casting experts will demonstrate their skill for the crowd, while talks on fishing and gunning will be presented for the benefit of both the boys and their dads.

There is no admission to this big event, but to help defray part of the expenses, chances will be sold on a Senior Door Prize. Every lad under 16 will be handed a ticket for the drawing of the Junior Prizes, three nice rods.

As an added attraction, Charlie Brickley, former All-American football star, will try a few of his famed dropkicks, aiming the pigskin at a basketball hoop . . . Movies and refreshments will also add up to make the evening a "must" on the calendars of many fathers and sons.

ANGLING ANGLES: Add striped bass derbies to your list; one being staged by the Holbrook Sportsmen's Ass'n, ending Aug. 31. All fish must be taken from the Powder Point Bridge, Duxbury, to be eligible for the 12 prizes. Entrants may write to E. N. Sprout, 15 State st., Randolph, chairman of the contest committee . . . Soon there will be more "derbies" than stripers!

Scattered catches of bass are being reported from the Parker river . . . There are plenty of this species in the Weweantic river now . . . The Red Top Bait boys send word that R. Hammond and R. Burrage hooked seven stripers, totalling 71 pounds, in Buzzards Bay, recently . . . The battling bass are hitting at numerous spots off the Bay State shores, and salt water sportsmen are happy at last!

CLUB CHATTER: The Essex County Beagle Ass'n will conducted its monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Moose Hall, Cabot st., Beverly, according to Sec. Frank E. Savory. There will be a discussion on the planting of the pheasants purchased by the outfit, with local game wardens offering information. A film, "Beagles and Cottontails," will be shown, as well.

This organization has a membership of 135 hunters, all striving to improve shooting conditions in this state. And they really need improving, in our opinion! . . . Last winter the club bought 75 snowshoe rabbits and has just purchased 125 ringnecked pheasants, which will be put out in August. To aid the conservation program, pheasant chicks are being raised by the group. Good work!

Mrs. 'Baba' Lewis Of Hub Is Winner

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mrs. Morey (Baba) Lewis of Boston defeated Laura Lou Jahn of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 6-0, 6-1, for the Women's Single championship in the Heart of America tennis tournament yesterday.

Mrs. Lewis, Canadian women's single champion, defeated the 14-year-old Florida girl at her own game, lobbing her returns deep and playing cautiously all the way.

HOW THE STARS DID

By The Associated Press

Ted Williams, Red Sox—Was retired twice against the pitching of Hal Newhouser and walked twice to increase his total bases on balls to 54 in 43 games.

Joe DiMaggio, Yankees — Singled in four times at bat against Jack Kramer in the opener and doubled in four times at bat in the nightcap to extend his new consecutive game hitting streak to eight straight as the Yankees and Browns split.

Hank Greenberg, Pirates—After being held hitless by Dutch Leonard in four times at bat in the first game, he tripled in nightcap to drive in an important run in Pittsburgh's 5-4 win which gave the Pirates a split.

Eagles to Battle H. C.

By ALEX MacLEAN

Boston College will be host to Holy Cross in the second meeting between the ancient Jesuit rival nines this afternoon at Alumni Field.

Apparently heading for a playoff spot in the forthcoming N. C. A. A. eliminations at New Haven, the Crusaders, who cemented their 4 to 3 holiday victory over B. C. in the ninth inning, will rely on Joe Tivnan who will oppose either Don O'Brien or Frank Shellenbach on the mound.

Should B. C. rebound, they may well cause a few anxious moments for Holy Cross regarding the Crusaders' acceptance as one of the four Eastern colleges to be selected for the Eastern trials at New Haven. The playoffs will be conducted in the same manner as were the annual basketball tournament eliminations at Madison Sq. Garden, and a loss to the seven times defeated Eagles would not bolster H. C. stock as a national contender.

Bill Holland Makes Good

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Bill Holland of Bridgeport, Ct., runner-up in the Indianapolis Memorial Day classic, set a new record in winning the 100-mile AAA championship automobile race in one hour, eight minutes and 44.61 seconds. A record crowd of 34,788 at Milwaukee's State Fair Park watched the race. Rex Mays, Glendale, Cal., veteran, who vinished third at Indianapolis, was second. Mays set the previous AAA record of one hour, 10 minutes, 44.57 seconds at the State Fair Park's one-mile dirt track last Sept. 22 before the previous record crowd of 26,671.

All 'Gansett Track Needs Is Good Watch Worth $500

By DAVE WILSON

NARRAGANSETT PARK, June 9—Although off to a rather sluggish start, 'Gansett seems destined to finish up its current 30-day meeting with a daily mutuel average of better than one million dollars . . . That daily attendances and mutuel "handles" will mount was clearly demonstrated the past Saturday when a throng of 24,323 wagered a total of $1,276,823 to boost the average for the first six days to $858,921.

The poor getaway at the Rhode Island racing plant can be attributed to the facts that the average racegoer can only afford only a limited amount of his or her favorite pastime and that Suffolk Downs played to record crowds during the final two days of its recent 38-day session.

Heave a sigh and shed a tear for the poor handicapper who has been using the official time of races run at the current Narragansett Park meeting as a basis for his figures . . . Some of the running times posted at the Pawtucket track have been as much as two full seconds off key.

According to private timers, the 'Gansett timer, although capable enough, has been using a faulty timing piece, a relic of the horse and carriage era. It seems that a big-time track expecting to do a mutuel business of better than one million dollars per day could afford an electric timer or at least purchase a good watch for its timer.

Surely a clocker working for a stipend of little more than a mutuel clerk garners cannot be expected to own a timepiece valued at $500 or more, and have another such watch in reserve.

Repair bills on such valuable and delicate watches would use up a large portion of his paltry salary.

The stall committee will hold an important meeting today at Suffolk Downs . . . If East Boston officials are sincere in their efforts to establish clean and formful racing, they'll put non-betting stables on their preferred list for stalls at the forthcoming summer session.

Worcester Experts Aid Sandlotters

By JACK CONWAY, Jr.

The executive committee for the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser sandlot baseball championships at Worcester on Wednesday afternoon, June 18th, at Oval Park has been given additional strength by the addition of two of the most famous sporting names in the city. They are Earl Brigham, director of physical education for all the Worcester public schools and Phil O'Connell, head coach at Boys' Trade School, Worcester.

Brigham has been one of the most instrumental men in organized athletics in Worcester for many years. It is a fine tribute to the Hearst tournament that a man of his high qualifications should assent to act on the executive board.

O'Connell is well remembered as one of the top athletes to graduate from Holy Cross. While with the Jesuit school O'Connell starred in football, baseball and basketball.

"The Hearst baseball tryouts in Worcester," said Brigham, "will be the most successful mass athletic endeavor ever staged in Worcester for amateur ballplayers."

"The first Record-American tryout at Lawrence last week," emphasized O'Connell, "was sure proof that amateur baseball is on the upswing. We will have a fine turnout at Oval Park for the Worcester tryouts. You can be sure that Worcester Trade School will be well represented on that day."

Joe Barry, Haverhill High catcher, and Dick Kowalski, Lawrence High pitcher, were the two boys selected to represent the Lowell-Haverhill-Lawrence sector in the Hearst New England final at Fenway Park on July 29. This year's N. E. title game will be played as part of a Red Sox-Cleveland Indians doubleheader with Joe Cronin on one bench and Lou Boudreau sitting on the other.

Two players will be selected by the executive board at the Worcester tryouts. These two boys from Worcester will join the 26 other boys, selected from other sections of New England, at the Fenway Park game. The best boys in the N. E. final then will be sent on an expense-free seven-day trip to New York for the National final at the Polo Grounds.

Everything is free. There is no entry fee of any kind. All the balls and bats will be supplied for you. Just bring your glove and report to Oval Park on Wednesday, June 18, at 3 p. m.

SWIM MEET PUT OVER

The swimming meet scheduled yesterday afternoon at Castle Island was postponed because of the unfavorable weather.

The meet which was to be conducted as part of the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser "Learn to Swim" campaign will be held at Castle Island next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m.

Gene Lovett to Oppose Tony Settino in Twi Loop Feature

A duel between two hitting pitchers is looked for tonight at South Boston Stadium where the Artesani Club of Allston will visit with Bill Benson's Linehans, in a feature of six Park League games scheduled. Gene Lovett, former Harvard captain, who leads the league in homers and throws a fireball, opposes the veteran Linehan ace speedballer, Tony Settino.

Leo Lombardo will unveil a new hurler tonight when his Walsh Legionnaires journey to Billings Field where the league-leading West Roxbury outfit, with Joe Callahan on the hill, will be waiting. Bruce Fitzpatrick is the new member of the Legion's hurling staff which has been spotty thus far.

Old-Timers Select Ted

CHICAGO, June 9 (AP)—After watching most of the players in action this season, five of baseball's "greats" of yesteryear agreed today on only five candidates for the 14th annual All-Star game in Wrigley Field, July 8.

Voting with thousands of other fans in a nationwide poll to select American and National League starting lineups for the mid-summer contest were Rogers Hornsby, who served under Mickey Cochran, manager of the American Leaguers in the 1935 game at Cleveland; Max Carey, former Pittsburgh outfield ace and Brooklyn manager who was coach under John McGraw when the Giants' skipper piloted the National Leaguers in the 1933 All-Star inaugural; Fred Lindstrom the "Boy Wonder" who played with the Giants before he was 19; Ray "Cracker" Schalk, immortal Chicago White Sox ironman catcher from 1913 through 1926; and Gabby Hartnett, fiery Cub receiver and manager who was behind the plate when Carl Hubbell struck out five successive American Leaguers in the 1934 All-Star encounter.

In their National League selections, they were unanimous in nominating Johnny Mize of the Giants at first base, Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals in the outfield and Walker Cooper of the Giants as catcher.

Only two A. L. performers received all their votes—shortstop Lou Boudreau of the Indians and outfielder Ted Williams of the Red Sox.

While three picked Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals at second base in the N. L. nominations, Hornsby chose Emil Verban of the Phils and Carey took Eddie Stanky of the Dodgers. Three also selected Frankie Gustine of the Pirates at third, but Hornsby wanted ageless Stan Hack of the Cubs and Hartnett chose Bob Elliott of the Braves.
